CHARGED WITH EXTORTION IN LABATT CASE

Toronto Man Under Arrest —Amount of Ransom Paid Not Revealed

DETAILS OF VICTIM'S RELEASE WITHHELD

TORONTO, Aug. 17 (CP). — Edward Chard, twenty-six - year - old Toronto man, rested in jail here tonight, awaiting hearing on a charge of demanding "with menaces" $5,000 from Hugh Labatt, brother of John S. Labatt, London, Ont., brewer, who was released by kidnappers early this morning.

Police allege that Chard was responsible for the mysterious telephone calls that came to Hugh Labatt's hotel room early Thursday morning. The person who telephoned Labatt claimed he could gain the freedom of the kidnapped brewer.

PHONE CALLS TRACED

According to police it was about 12:40 o'clock Thursday morning that Chard left two friends on the Humber Bridge near the lake shore, claiming he was to phone a girl friend. Police allege he called Labatt from a service station, later making another call when Labatt failed to keep the appointment because of the numerous reporters watching his suite.

On the second call, police said, Labatt was accused of informing reporters and the person talking to him then hung up.

Police assert that Chard admitted making the calls and attempting to arrange a meeting with Hugh Labatt.

THREAT OF REPRISALS

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 17 (CP). — Threat of reprisals against the family of John Labatt prevents the London brewer from making public details of his experiences in the hands of his kidnappers, according to a piecing together of information available here tonight.

The question of ransom was raised at several points today, and evoked just as many answers. A source close to the family told the Canadian Press "not a cent was paid, as far as I know." The informant was convinced no money had been paid over. At Hamilton it was reported that the original $150,000 demanded had been scaled down to "less than $50,000." Detroit had a relative asserting the full

TO INAUGURATE NEW DEBT DEAL

Says Act to Assist Burdened Farmers to Become Operative Soon

TORONTO, Aug. 17 (CP).—In a special despatch from its Ottawa correspondent, The Mail and Empire today reports that a "new deal" for the debt-burdened farmers of the Canadian West is to be inaugurated by the Government of Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, September 1.

"On that date," the paper says, "the Farmers' Debt Adjustment Act, passed at the last session of Parliament, is to become operative. Potential applications for its benefits from the three Prairie Provinces are being estimated conservatively on Parliament Hill at 25,000 with total liabilities running into millions.

"The legislation is being confined to the West as a start, since it is in that section of the Dominion it is most needed. After it has been brought into successful operation there, however, it will be extended to the other provinces."

Hopi Indians Start Snake Ceremonials

HOTEVILLA, Ariz., Aug. 17 (AP). —The secret rites for the snake ceremonial of the Hopi Indians for rain, began at dawn here today with twenty-four snake and antelope priests taking part.

Until ceremonies end with the thrilling public snake dance at sundown, August 24, no snake or antelope man will engage in routine labor. For the last twenty-four hours before the dance, no food passes their lips.

Hopis close to snake priests said today the dancers had gathered more rattlesnakes than ever before with more than 200 rattling and hissing in the kivas, while the dancers made medicine with sand paintings, secret dances, and chants.

Every effort will be made to persuade the Hopi gods to send rain to parched crops and renew the village springs.

Burning of Old Vessel Most Spectacular

Finis was written to the material history of the Ss. Princess Royal, last evening. At 5 o'clock the old craft, which had been built at Bullen's plant, Esquimalt, and launched in 1907, was set on fire as she lay broadside to the beach, about midway between Esquimalt Lagoon and Albert Head, Royal Bay. She was burned for the iron fittings holding her staunch timbers together. The flames and smoke made a striking picture against the background of the shore, as darkness fell, and attracted many spectators along Dallas Road and other points of vantage.

Unfair Methods of Doing Business in Canada Criticized

Says Business Must Be Protected

HON. H. H. STEVENS
Minister of Trade and Commerce, who yesterday addressed a large meeting on need for correction of unethical commercial dealings.

Hon. H. H. Stevens Reveals Astounding Picture of Conditions in Some Lines of Industry in East—Remedies Must Be Applied by Governmental Control If Voluntary Action Fails

CITING case after case of inhuman business practices, Hon. H. H. Stevens, Federal Minister of Trade and Commerce, electrified a capacity audience at the Empress Hotel ballroom at noon, yesterday, when speaking as the luncheon guest of Victoria organizations. In graphic terms he traced the realignment of world trade; pointed to the necessity for Canadian action to meet vital new conditions; and ended with a direct appeal to place business on a higher, more worthwhile plane. A tremendous ovation greeted a statesmanlike address.

Referring to his theme as the new orientation of commerce and industry, Mr. Stevens said he was profoundly convinced that drastic and radical changes were coming in the methods of doing business and the manner in which commerce would find expression. It was the duty of business men to study these changing conditions, and adapt themselves afresh.

TENETS OUTWORN

He would ask as a question, and not as a criticism, were individuals doing all that lay in their power to remedy present conditions? It had been argued that the law of supply and demand should be allowed to function without the intervention of governments; and also said in support that good and bad times followed each other in cycles, and always would. The older type of business man clung to these tenets, which, he believed, were only true in part.

The business world today was in much the same position as England in 1846-9, when transfer was made from the pre-machine age of in-

Noted Skier Is Fatally Injured

SALISBURY, Conn., Aug. 17 (AP).—John Satre, forty, internationally-known skier, was injured fatally today in an automobile accident on the Sharon-Lakeville Road. The skier, one of five brothers who have gained prominence in Winter sports in Canada and the United States as members of the Salisbury Ski Club, was thrown out of an automobile as it went off the highway and struck an embankment.

TAKE OFF FOR DUBLIN

ROME, Aug. 18 (AP).—George Pond and Cesare Sabelli hopped off at 7:02 a.m. today (1:02 a.m. E.S.T.) for Dublin, en route to the United States on a return flight.

SEES FAILURE OF CONFERENCE

Expert Says Wheat Parley Has Little Hope of Reaching Agreement

LONDON, Aug. 17 (AP). — An unofficial European wheat expert who has been in closest touch with the international wheat conference in session here, predicted tonight the parley will end in a stalemate.

The expert, who is a neutral observer of all negotiations, said the new plan for a quarterly system of export quotas will be killed and that it will be at least a month before there will be any chance of fixing annual quotas for the export year which began August 1.

"Most delegates are ready now to let this year take care of itself," he declared. "The chief hope of the Canadians, Australians and Americans is to keep the international wheat advisory committee intact until August, 1935, when the world situation might again become critical."

Hitler Makes Appeal For His Election as President of Reich

Says Assumption of Supreme Power Was Necessary to Preserve Germany From Her Enemies —Asks People to Endorse His Action

HAMBURG, Germany, Aug. 17 (AP). — Adolf Hitler pleaded earnestly with all Germany, tonight, to approve his succession to the powers of Reichspresident von Hindenburg—a succession, he asserted, was made necessary by foreign hostility toward Germany and economic distress at home.

He made no effort to cover up the present economic difficulties of the Reich, but referred to them as conditions calling for a strong central government.

FEARED DELAY

The Chancellor declared he would have preferred to appeal to the people first and then carry out their decision, but he feared the leaderless weeks which would have intervened might have proved costly to Germany.

Referring to "catchwords" used by the foreign press, such as "impending collapse of the Nazi movement," while Von Hindenburg was dying, Hitler declared: "These circles probably cherish a belief that the Reich would offer possibilities for throwing into confusion public

HALF-MILLION FAVOR STRIKE

Other Textile Unions Vote to Join Cotton Workers if Walk-Out Called

NEW YORK, Aug. 17 (AP). — Strikes involving 325,000 additional workers were voted, tonight, in the woolen and worsted, silk, rayon and synthetic rayon knitters industries, by the convention of the United Textile Workers of America. The convention, Thursday, voted a strike in the cotton textile industry, which employs 500,000 workers.

Votes to call out workers in the industries allied with the cotton textile industry of United States were by a large majority, but not unanimous.

LEFT TO COMMITTEES

Silk and rayon industries delegates left to the discretion of the new executive committee of the United Textile Workers of America and the executive committees of their own branches the time the strikes were to be called.

Woolen and worsted and synthetic rayon workers, however, decided to go out at the same time as the cotton textile employees. The convention had voted to call at seventy-two hours' notice the cotton textile strike, on or before September 1, in an effort to force increased wages and improved working conditions.

Detective Posing As Match Vendor Makes Neat Sum

LONDON, Aug. 17 (CP).—A Scotland Yard detective disguised himself as an ex-sailor selling matches, when he was in search of a "wanted" man. In this disguise, he stood on a prominent London sidewalk for six days and eventually secured his man. He also received nearly $40 from kind-hearted passersby. Most of the contributors merely passed him a copper or two without bothering to take his matches.

TEN PLANES END FLIGHT

Bombing Squadron Returns to U.S. From Alaska—Pass Over Victoria

Ten large United States Army bombing planes, en route from Juneau, Alaska, to Seattle, passed over Victoria at 5:15 o'clock yesterday evening. Fifteen minutes earlier they passed over Nanaimo, according to messages from the coal city.

Thousands of Victorians, attracted by the thunderous roar of the big machines, saw the planes fly in formation at a comparatively low altitude over the city. It was estimated that they were traveling at 180 miles an hour as they headed over the straits.

COMPLETE LONG HOP

SEATTLE, Aug. 17 (AP).—Swooping down out of a sunless sky, ten huge army bombing planes which have been making an aerial survey ot Interior Alaska, landed at Boeing Field here today at 5:55 p.m., completing a non-stop flight of 940 miles, from Juneau, capital of Alaska, in five hours and forty minutes.

The bombers soared over Seattle in three-three-three-one formation before settling on the field south of the city, after one of the longest flights ever undertaken by the Army Air Corps in mass formation.

DEVELOPMENT NECESSARY

Lieut.-Col. Henry H. Arnold, in charge of the squadron, declared upon his arrival here his belief that development of aviation in the Puget Sound region and along the Alaskan Coast is a prime necessity.

He said tactical squadrons could be dispatched quickly to Alaska in case of a threatening attack and pointed to the success of the flight just concluded as an indication of the feasibility of such flights.

The bombing planes carried a personnel of fourteen officers and eighteen enlisted men. They took off from Washington, D.C., a month ago and proceeded to Fairbanks, Alaska across Canada.

FIRE DESTROYS INTERIOR TOWN

Settlement of Cascade Is Swept by Flames—Only Two Buildings Saved

CASCADE, B.C., Aug. 17 (CP). — Residents of this little mountain community, twelve miles east of Grand Forks on the Kettle Valley line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, tonight surveyed a smouldering mass of ruins, left in the wake of a fire which almost wiped out the business section of the town, early today.

Six business places were razed by the flames, which are believed to have started in the rear of the British Columbia Hotel, first structure to fall prey to the fire.

Total damage is estimated at around $30,000, majority of which is not covered by insurance.

TWO BUILDINGS SAVED

Handicapped by lack of water, which is hauled from a creek four miles away for domestic use, local and forestry fire fighters, aided by crews from Grand Forks, were able to save only the railway building and R. G. Ritchie's general store in the business section.

Spreading from the British Columbia Hotel, the flames destroyed the Cascade Hotel, a service station, Crawford & Lavender's general store, a garage, the Government storehouse, and several barns and sheds.

TWO RESIGN FROM CUBAN GOVERNMENT

HAVANA, Aug 17 (CP-Havas).—Secretary of Public Works Daniel Conpte and Secretary of Health Santiago Verdeja, resigned from the Cuban Cabinet this afternoon. Their resignations were taken to mean that former President Menocal had broken with President Carlos Mendieta.

FLAMING FORESTS MENACING COMMUNITIES IN KOOTENAYS

Beautiful Summer Home of S. G. Blaylock, Near Nelson, in Pathway of Rapidly Advancing Blaze—Grohman Creek Residents Moving Furniture to Safety

Sheep Creek Mining Camps Are Isolated From Salmo

NELSON, B.C., Aug. 17 (CP). — Flames, fanned by strong winds, roared through the gorge behind the beautiful and spacious Summer home and grounds of S. G. Blaylock, vice-president and general manager of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company, near Willow Point, today. Willow Point is across the West Arm of the Kootenay Lake, east of the dangerous Grohman Creek fire which is threatening lakeside residents across from Nelson.

The Nelway fire, swept by strong winds from the southwest, went racing back into Canadian territory as an American crew, estimated variously from 150 to 300 strong, attempted to check its rampant course. They were reported to be fairly successful.

RESIDENTS PACKING

The Grohman Creek fire, which for the most part has been content with racing along the ridge of Nelson Mountain, came down the east side slope, Friday, and aroused new anxiety among north shore residents. Some of the dwellers have packed and have taken a portion of their household effects away, and others are packed in readiness to leave should the danger increase.

The fire above the Summer home of E. C. Wragg was stirred into new life today and spread farther along the mountainside, moving in a northeasterly direction.

Watchers from the road near Mr. Blaylock's home reported hearing

Will Arrive Here Today on Visit

BARON TOMLIN OF ASH

ONE of the most distinguished of British jurists, and Lord of Appeals in Ordinary since 1929, will arrive in Victoria today, accompanied by Lady Tomlin. He will address a joint luncheon gathering of the Men's Canadian Club and the Victoria Bar Association on Monday, at 12:15 p.m., in the Empress Hotel.

Earthquake Causes No Heavy Loss

TOKIO, Aug. 18 (AP).—No casualties were reported from a strong earthquake which struck the Nagaoya district, almost in the centre of Japan, a few minutes before noon today.

Communication lines were destroyed to the north, but were rapidly restored. Damage was less heavy than had been feared after first reports.

The quake's centre was forty miles north of the city of Nagoya, which is 160 miles from Tokio. Damage to railway tunnels and bridges was reported and the city of Kyoto was badly shaken.

ON FLIGHT INTO STRATOSPHERE

Belgian Scientists Start Ascent, Planning to Reach Height of 42,000 Feet

HOUR-HAVENNE, Belgium, Aug. 18 (AP).—Two Belgian scientists seeking new scientific data on the stratosphere began their ascent at 6:17 a.m. today, planning to reach a height of 42,000 feet.

Max Cosyns and Neree Vanderlist, their huge silk and rubber balloon supporting them in a sealed aluminum sphere, rose gently into the dawn-lit sky, after a last-minute check of scientific apparatus, hydrogen controls and ballast. Cosyns made a former stratosphere ascent with Professor Auguste Piccard.

VACCINE IS PERFECTED

Research Worker Claims Effective Preventive of Infantile Paralysis

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 17 (AP).—A victorious end to science's 100-year search for a method to prevent infantile paralysis was claimed today by Dr. John A. Kolmer, quiet and unassuming Temple University professor and medical research director.

After three years of effort, inspired by severe epidemics of the disease, Dr. Kolmer said that he had perfected a successful vaccine against the dread infection.

PREVENTIVE MEASURE

Stressing that the vaccine is entirely a preventive measure and in no way a "cure" for paralysis after infection sets in, the professor said that he demonstrated the effectiveness of the fluid in experiments with monkeys and finally with injections into his own body and that of his technical assistant, Miss Anna M. Rule, of Halifax, N.S.

As an indication of his confidence in his discovery, he declared his intention to vaccinate his two teenage children.

The vaccine is prepared from the spinal cords of monkeys, Dr. Kolmer explained, much as Pasteur developed his preventive for hydrophobia, or rabies.

WILL NOT BE COSTLY

Declaring it could be made available for general use without delay and at low cost, the physician predicted that it would soon be requested by parents as pre-school vaccination.

To be effective in preventing paralysis, Dr. Kolmer said that the vaccine would have to be injected six weeks before the germs attacked the body. Once administered, however, he expressed confidence that it would make the subject of vaccination immune for life.

Dr. Kolmer expressed great admiration for the courage of his assistant, a comely young woman now vacationing in Nova Scotia, in joining him in the vaccine test.

SURRENDERS TO POLICE

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Aug. 17 (AP).—A man identified himself as H. S. Dagg, forty, of Ottawa, surrendered to police here tonight and said he was wanted in the Canadian capital on charges of cashing Government cheques amounting to $1,500 which he converted to his own use.

NRA HAS FAILED IN OBJECTIVE

Former U.S. Senator Says Recovery Plan Not Achieving Results

VANCOUVER, Aug. 17 (CP). — Business has not recovered as anticipated in the United States, Reed Smoot, for thirty years a United States senator, and well-known to Canadians as co-author of the famous Hawley-Smoot tariff, which greatly reduced Canadian exports to that country, said here, today, in the course of a few observations on conditions in the United States and on the N.R.A. He expressed the opinion United States tariffs against Canada will continue.

"I am sorry to say business has not recovered as anticipated," said the veteran Republican politician. "Plans were mapped out and courses have been followed which have never before been tried—but I doubt if the results are what the administration anticipated.

FAVORS OLD POLICY

"American people, I think, will stand taxation to avoid suffering—but perhaps the old policy of letting things work out themselves would have brought recovery quicker than the present course.

"Perhaps I'm of the old school," added the tall, gaunt American with bushy eyebrows, in a low conversational tone, "but I doubt if people who have been fed and cared for in a way perhaps they have never known before are going to be satisfied when the dole is cut off."

Mr. Smoot is convinced that no matter how cordial relations are between Canada and United States, tariffs will exist so far as his country is concerned if the American standard of living is to be maintained.

AVIATOR MAKES TRIP TO ARCTIC

Flyer Picks Northland Flowers Three Days After Raiding Kootenay Orchard

EDMONTON, Aug. 17 (CP). — Real Summer weather visited Cambridge Bay on the southeast end of Victoria Island, Arctic Ocean, for the first time this year on Monday, according to Pilot Stanley McMillan, Mackenzie Air Service, who completed a flight of nearly 4,000 miles from Vancouver to the wind-swept barrens of the Arctic and then to Edmonton in a week's time.

The intrepid airman said today he had raided a friend's orchard at Kaslo, B.C., on August 9 and three days later plucked an Arctic flower for his buttonhole.

His was the first airplane to settle at Cambridge Bay, remote Arctic settlement peopled by four R.C.M.P. and two white traders, this year. The pilot received a royal welcome.

Kidnappers Demand $25,000; Threaten to Blow Up Big Temple

Aimee Semple McPherson Asked to Pay Ransom for Release of Preacher Abducted in North Carolina—Blasting of Church Alternative

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 17 (AP). — Officials of Angelus Temple here, turned over to police today, a letter demanding $25,000 from Aimee Semple McPherson, the evangelist, for the release of R. H. Askey, North Carolina pastor, who is a kidnap victim.

The letter threatened to blow up the temple if the money were not forthcoming, police said.

REPORTS CONFLICTING

GOLDSBORO, N.C., Aug. 17 (AP).—Reports that R. H. Askew, reputedly kidnapped, was, instead, en route to join Aimee Semple McPherson in spreading the "Four-Square Gospel," brought renewed activity by investigators here, tonight. Sheriff Paul Garrison received word from Kingston, that Askew had told a minister there that he planned to become one of Sister Aimee's disciples in Los Angeles.

A few hours before, it became known that Mrs. Askew had received a telegram from Washington, signed "Cortez," and apparently from the purported kidnappers, saying: "Have the money ready Saturday."

On Wednesday, the day after her evangelist husband disappeared, she received a note, postmarked here the day before, demanding $25,000 "if you want to see your husband alive again."

Foresters Are to Observe Founding Of Ancient Order

NANAIMO, Aug. 17.—The Ancient Order of Foresters will celebrate the hundredth anniversary of their order here at the sixty-first annual convention of Columbia District, opening on Sunday, August 19, with a church parade to Haliburton Street United Church. At 1:30 p.m., Monday, the opening convention meeting will be held, with an banquet at Hotel Malaspina in the evening. A second business session will be held, Tuesday, at 1:30 p.m. The convention will close with a grand dance on Newcastle Island.

Court Nanaimo was founded June 30, 1875, with the late James Knight as first chief ranger. The present chief ranger is James Borserio. Court Sherwood, a women's court, was founded in 1907, but was later merged with the Companions of the Forest, and renamed Court Progress, by the High Court. Two of the strongest juvenile Forester lodges are located here, the boys forming Court Pride of Honor, No. 2, and the girls, Court Pride of the West. They are reputed to be the two strongest juvenile orders in British Columbia.

GRAND FORKS, Aug. 17 (CP).—Pete Kinakin was convicted for lighting a fire without a permit, contrary to the Forest Act, and fined $25, and in default of payment was committed to jail for twenty-five days at hard labor, today, by Justice of the Peace A. B. Fenwick.

LIKENS CITY TO "HOME OF REST"

Edward T. Findley, Landscape Gardener From Pasadena, Passes Through Victoria

Victoria is "a home of rest" to Edward T. Findley, landscape gardener from Pasadena, who is visiting Victoria until Sunday morning. Mr. Findley is en route home after a Summer vacation trip in Alaska. He is registered at the James Bay Hotel.

"Butchart's Gardens are ahead of anything I have ever seen," Mr. Findley stated. He is a traveler of note, having made trips to Honolulu, New York and other parts of the United States.

One of the most unusual possessions Mr. Findley has—and he is a collector of many unusual things—is an autograph album first started in 1882. The first page of the book is inscribed "The White House," and underneath is the vigorous signature, "Franklin Roosevelt."

Mr. Findley leaves Victoria with regret, he said, and he hopes to return again.

Constitution Not Favorable, So It Is To Be Burned

Saanich Ward Seven Ratepayers' Association has discovered one way of getting rid of an unwanted constitution.

Here's how it happened:

At the body's annual meeting last night, in Tillicum School, the members were considering a new constitution. One used by another Saanich ratepayers' association was submitted and read clause by clause.

"Say, that thing is about the worst bit of tripe I've ever heard," stated one ratepayer, when the constitution had been read.

"Mr. Chairman," declared W. J. Waters, "I move we throw it in the fire." The motion was seconded and Chairman Thomas Sargent put the question.

It passed unanimously, and this morning Secretary James Pickard will deposit the unwanted constitution in his range at home.

SAYS C.C.F. IS GAINING FAVOR

Rev. Robert Connell, M.P.P., Gives Address on Return From Prairies

In spite of the appalling conditions existing in the Prairie Provinces, the courage of its people still stands. To these people of the plains must be brought a true understanding of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation. Wherever the C.C.F. is carrying its message on the Prairies, it is gaining adherents, not only of those who through circumstances are driven to it, but also from the ranks of profound thinkers who foresee the coming of a complete change in the economic order of the country.

This was the message Rev. Robert Connell, M.P.P., gave to an audience numbering nearly 300 persons, last night, at the C.C.F. headquarters, Fort Street. Mr. Connell has just returned from the Prairies. He assisted the C.C.F. of Saskatchewan in their recent election campaign, and attended the national convention of the Federation held in July at Winnipeg.

NEW MANIFESTO

Much misunderstanding arose over the adoption of a second manifesto at the Winnipeg convention, the speaker said. He pointed out that the Winnipeg manifesto of the C.C.F., did not differ nationally from that adopted at Regina, some time ago, in so far that its points were concentrated to permit an easier understanding. The convention endorsed the C.C.F. programme, which calls for the Federation, immediately on gaining power at Ottawa, to bring into being social finance, invoke measures to protect farmers for all times and end insecurity for workers, and create far-reaching public works programme.

Ballads and hymns, such as British people often sang years ago, when they struggled to better their plight, were the orders of the days during the national convention, Mr. Connell explained. Last night, he strongly urged that the singing of songs be henceforth included on programmes of every C.C.F. meeting in the city. This appeal was answered by enthusiastic applause.

Speeds Up Car Saving Bank Funds

SANTIAGO, Cuba., Aug. 17 (AP).—A group of men armed with a submachine gun today tried to hold up F. J. Tobin, manager of the Holguin branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, who was en route to Santiago from Holguin with $40,000.

The attackers opened fire on Tobin's automobile, wounding an assistant auditor of the bank, Francisco Isaguirre, and a soldier guard. Tobin's chauffeur speeded up the car and escaped with the money intact.

JAPAN PLANS FORCIBLE ACTION

But Foreign Office Considers Sending Warning to Moscow Over Manchurian Situation

TOKIO, Aug. 17 (AP).—Adopting an attitude less belligerent toward Soviet Russia than that of the Japanese press, the Japanese Foreign Office affirmed, today, it was considering the possibility of sending a "general warning" to Moscow concerning the Manchukuo situation.

A Foreign Office spokesman said the warning that was being considered would recount many frontier incidents, including alleged Soviet plots and provocations, with assurances requested against repetition.

"I can guarantee that Japan is preparing for no forcible action against the Soviet," the spokesman added.

Didn't Want To Disagree With Police

BALTIMORE, Aug. 17 (AP).—Police Lieut. Edward Doherty thumbed the keen-edged razor and asked: "What did you do with the night watchman, murder him?"

"Yes, sir," replied the prisoner, Paul Watkins, a Negro.

The patrol wagon, stretcher and stretcher-bearers aboard, roared down the street—to bring the night watchman's body from a tailor shop that Watkins was charged with robbing.

Policeman batered down the door—plunged in. There sat the watchman, Ernest Schlufter, big as life.

But let Watkins explain—"I didn't want to disagree with the law," he said. "I just couldn't bear to argue with them that early in the morning."

He was held for entering the tailor shop.

Is Astounded by Indian's Memory

BANFF, Alta., Aug. 17.—Sitting Eagle, Stoney Indian medicine man here for the three-day festival of Indian days at Banff Springs Hotel posed unmoved while G. B. Mitchell, New York artist, worked quickly on his portrait. After a half hour of impassive silence, he said in monotone: "White man take picture me twenty-five year ago."

Mr. Mitchell replied: "That's right, but I just kept quiet to see if you would remember." Sitting Eagle, smiling, answered: "Stoney never forget."

Data and Dates Of Victoria and Vancouver Island

THE full beauty of Greater Victoria cannot be fully appreciated until seen from some high point. And there are many such vantage points within easy reach of the city. Those visitors and residents, alike, who desire the exceptional panoramic views of the district may, without leaving the heart of the city, have the fulfillment of their wish by mounting the steps to the gallery around the outside of the base of the dome at the Legislative Buildings, or by going to the lookout platform erected on the roof of the Hudson's Bay Company store. Others, in automobiles, may drive to the summit of Mount Tolmie, where a wonderful view in every direction awaits them. Autos may also be driven to Gonzales Hill, Beacon Hill, Reservoir Hill, and the Malahat Drive, which rises 1,250 feet above the sea level.

EXTORTION CHARGED IN LABATT CASE

amount had been paid, but the manager of Labatt's brewery in London and members of the family there repudiated any such statement.

STRICT CENSORSHIP

What amounted to strict censorship was in force as far as statements on the kidnapping were concerned. Everything was to be issued or at least authorized by Attorney-General Arthur W. Roebuck from his office in Toronto. The accepted belief was that reprisals had been threatened if details were disclosed—at least before a specified time.

Both John and Hugh Labatt rested all day after a fast early morning drive to Hugh's home following John's safe arrival in Toronto from whatever hide-away in which he had been imprisoned. Both were said to be in a condition of nervous collapse, though Dr. W. F. Tillman, leaving the house late today after a stay of some hours, spoke only of John.

In reply to a question as to how John looked, Dr. Tillman said, "his eyes are sore and inflamed from the adhesive tape used to blindfold him; but I think he will be all right in a few days." The doctor insisted he had not asked him where he was taken. "He appeared to have been well treated, and apparently got good food," he added.

WOULD UNIFY ACTION

TORONTO, Aug. 17 (CP). — Announcement of impending action designed to unify and increase police patrol in case of another kidnap crisis was the chief development following the release of John Labatt today.

Attorney-General Arthur W. Roebuck of Ontario issued two statements. The first outlined in bare essentials Labatt's abduction between Sarnia and London last Tuesday and his release near the border of the Forest Hill village district. It declared "His arrival resulted in lack of co-operation between the authorities and his friends," and asserted "There is no hot trail of the abductors."

The second statement amplified the first and held that "The State should be in a position to declare, if it is thought advisable, that no ransom shall be paid." It said: "The lesson of the last few days" has proved the need for an arrangement for one supreme head of various police bodies in time of crisis, and announced the calling of an Ontario police chiefs' convention to talk about it.

FINDS RELEASED MAN

TORONTO, Aug. 17 (CP).—John Labatt, London, Ont., brewer, released by his kidnappers early this morning, was picked up at 12:10 a.m. at a street corner in the northern section of Toronto by William Christie, taxi-driver. Christie, late today, described how he found the fifty-five-year-old brewery head, tired and dishevilled, at the corner of St. Clair Avenue and Vaughan Road.

"I was standing at the corner of Vaughan Road and St. Clair Avenue at midnight," Christie said. "A man approached me from the south-east corner of the street. He was dishevilled, needed a shave, had dirty spots on his very dark grey suit, wore no hat, had a wilted soft collar on him and carried a much-folded newspaper in his left hand.

"'Could I get a cab?' he asked me when almost in front of the taxi office. He got into the back seat and told me to drive to the Royal York Hotel."

Christie, when shown a picture of Labatt, said he was sure it was that of the man he had driven.

Dollar at Bargain Is Not Wanted

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 17 (CP).—Advertising a picture dealing with treasure, Lionel Brashares was employed to go about selling good silver dollars for 90 cents each.

After two hours he succeeded in selling twenty to a suspicious public. No women accepted the offer.

One man returned his purchase. "How come it had this 'E Pluribus Unum' on it?" he asked. Explaining availed nothing, and Brashares returned the 90 cents.

REPORT AIRING URGED BY BODY

Ward Seven Ratepayers' Ass'n Seek to Have Relief Probe Made Public

Demanding that a copy of the Provincial Government's report on relief matters in Saanich be made public, Ward Seven Ratepayers' Association, last night, in Tillicum School, endorsed Councillor E. C. Warren's effort to clear up the alleged "relief scandal."

James Pickard, secretary, declared it was an insult to the ratepayers of Saanich that the confidential Government report on the 1933 relief administration be given to press representatives and not taxpayers.

"Really, I think the whole business was a joke," stated William J. Waters. "I've seen Dan Lupino on the stage, but those fellows have him beaten," he continued.

NOT SATISFIED

Expressions of members revealed that they were not satisfied with the council's decision to meet again while the whole matter was still shrouded in mystery.

"We were over to Hon. G. S. Pearson's office on a delegation, recently, and he told us the amount British Columbia had to refund to the Dominion because of Saanich relief," stated C. N. Cole. Questioned later, Mr. Cole stated the amount was in the neighborhood of $2,000.

It was then moved that the association endorse Councillor Warren's policy and demand the report be made public.

UNFAIR BUSINESS METHODS CRITICIZED

dustry to steam and other machine-driving power. Tens of thousands of people were thrown out of work, in Lancashire and other mills by the invention of power. It required decades to get away from the effect, and before there followed a period of tremendous expansion.

If the analogy held, there would be no sudden solution for present world ills, but a slow process of working problems out. He would submit that a very serious problem of unemployment would have to be faced for many years to come, until the world had absorbed the shock of these changes. The law of supply and demand was virtually in suspension throughout all countries; and even in its free-trade home, Britain had turned to quotas, tariffs and other forms of control. Facts had to be faced.

CONTROL OF COMMERCE

Exporters in Canada, who had done business with European countries over a long period of time on a rugged individualistic basis, were beginning to realize that methods successful up to a year ago could no longer be applied. All over Europe there was control of commerce, without escape from that plan for any nation at present.

In Italy this control was exercised through the medium of corporative states, controlled and directed by the Government. It was a new experiment, but appeared to be functioning more or less with success. Canada was affected.

In Germany for upwards of thirty years there had been the increasing growth of cartels. Immensely powerful, these cartels gathered thousands of industrial units under one control, directing methods, setting quotas, even deciding fields of trading.

PARCELING OUT TRADE

Growing extra-murally, cartels of one form or another had parceled out the trade of the world in specific lines, such as steel, rubber, chemicals and so on.

Canada at one period had been "given" to Belgium as a field in which Belgium could market steel without European competition. Belgian steel was offered in Canada then at 535 francs per ton, or 300 francs less than the sale price in Belgium, and less than the Canadian cost of production. At dump prices, import steel had competed with home Canadian manufacture, on figures fixed by international cartel, to which Germany, France, and to some extent Britain subscribed.

Scores and scores of cartels had sprung up, similarly parceling out the trade of the world, and running across all national borders. Some years ago the largest electrical manufacturing house in Britain had agreed with the Westinghouse Company in the United States that the British firm would keep out of sales in Canada. Then British-owned, the B.C. Electric Railway Company, Ltd., had been forced to buy heavy duty electrical machinery in Germany, at the same time it was raising a British loan in London by virtue of this arrangement.

COCOA VIA NEW YORK

Seven or eight years ago, continued Mr. Stevens, all Cadbury's cocoa and similar British products were only obtainable in the Canadian trade through a United States house in New York. The trade of Canada, in other words, had been divided between cartels and agreements, some with tap roots in Europe. Since origination of the British Empire treaties a considerable change had taken place in these fixed arrangements, but the problem was not yet solved.

German cartels were now directly under the control of Adolph Hitler, and were very real and definite in form. In Russia all foreign business was done through a state once communistic, now in the form of state socialism, but with future leanings towards private capital. In the United States it was the National Recovery Act that was in control.

This ceaseless change, realignment, and alteration in the commerce of the world had to be observed and studied as facts, and could not be ignored.

FOREIGN QUOTAS

"We in Canada have failed to realize the terrific influence of these methods on the trade of the world. The day of our free exports of wheat and other commodities to Europe has ended. In the last few years the duties imposed by European countries against Canadian wheat have become almost prohibitive, amounting in some instances to over $1 a bushel. In Germany, recently, through the intervention of Providence and drought, the duty was temporarily lowered. The same thing applies to bacon, oats, meal and other exports we had been accustomed to sending abroad in some volume," Mr. Stevens continued.

Behind changing forces in the present line-up of nations as to trade was the outgrowth of extreme nationalistic spirit, intensified since the war. Social and political conditions in Europe were as sensitive and delicate as at any previous time, and it was terrible to realize that after years of painful sacrifice the war spirit was far from being dead. Nationalism was born out of fear, and lead to quotas, tariff prohibitions, and restricted forms of trade, all aimed at national self-sufficiency.

Conditions in Europe affected the Prairie wheat farmer in Canada, the fisherman off the coast of this province, the logger in the woods, and all ranks and conditions of society in the Dominion. Canada was suffering for the fears of Europe, as it was now well realized that all nations were so interwoven that conditions in one affected all.

FIELD TO CONTROL

Facility or limitation of exports, in turn, increased or decreased the field of purely internal business. When wheat was at 42½ cents per bushel, Canadian farmers could not buy consumer goods such as shoes, clothes, etc., upon which the manufacturers depended for their business. Foreign tariffs and quotas bore on the world price of wheat, and were outside Canadian control. There was, however, 90 per cent of remaining business that could be controlled, in his opinion.

Under Empire preferences, Canadian apple exports to Britain had grown from less than 1,500,000 barrels to more than double that figure in a few years. Some growers had threatened the market with inferior appies. British Columbia had not been to blame in that. The Federal Marketing Act had been introduced to cure such a situation.

"I know the Marketing Act was resented in some quarters," continued Mr. Stevens. "But here is the position: If we do not control, we will be shut out of Europe for failure to comply with quotas and standards set over there. We will be forced to control, in fact, to enter a controlled market.

"In recognition of this, we passed the marketing law, and it is hoped through this medium to eliminate the greed and selfishness of the 10 per cent of the producers who would follow their own inclination regardless of the violence they do to all decent business.

PREMIUM ON GREED

"The great bulk of the business men in Canada desire to play the game, and to do it right. Yet we have illustration after illustration of the decent man being forced out of business by the competition of those who would promote sweatshop conditions for their own aggrandisement.

"I was challenged as being unfair in the investigation of some of the working conditions of firms in the East. Yet scores of industries that were paying a decent wage have been driven out of business in the last few years, to be replaced by a type of man who is without business ethics; replaced by those who were paying 38 cents a dozen for the making of women's house dresses, or 25 cents a dozen for men's trousers.

"In one instance it was shown that four women and four men, all experts at their trade, worked day and night to average $1.80 for their combined efforts. The women sewed by day and their husbands pressed the garments at night. I talked to many superior young girls in another factory. One had worked as a skilled operator for ten years, averaging from $18 to $24 a week or better up to two years ago. Since then she has done twice the work and cannot even earn the minimum wage, which, I believe, was $9. Others were making $7 weekly for skilled work," Mr. Stevens continued.

NO TIME FOR SILENCE

"When you find decent men driven out of business by such methods, and unscrupulous persons profiting through the misery of their fellow men and women, are we to keep silent?"

There was a chorus of "Noes," which became general.

"What is the use of pointing with pride to Canadian progress," continued Mr. Stevens, "unless we face the facts and do something to remedy the situation. I am somewhat of a crank on individualism, but I will not sit idly by and see men make such use of the temporary powers placed in their hands, and with which they seek to make wealth for themselves."

"There is no law in economics; there is no moral law; and there is no justification for a corporation with investments of $14,000,000 running that up into $100,000,000 by trimming the producer, or by cutting wages from 10 to 15 per cent. You cannot justify great corporations making 8, 10, 14 per cent, as many have done in the last few years, and at the same time cutting wages to a condition of penury," Mr. Stevens declared.

PROFITS FROM WAGES

"In one corporation the men cheerfully accepted two cuts each of 10 per cent; while in the same period that corporation made profits which enabled them to pay back dividends for a period of several years. Unless we seek to understand these facts, and take steps to arrest such conditions—then we are leaving it to other forces, the results of which may not be to our liking at all.

"It is, I say, an open question whether the so-called 'modern efficiency' in business is not being bought at too great a price. The small business man is mostly inarticulate. It is for larger business to see if efficiency is not being secured through the neglect of social and economic welfare of the individuals under its control.

"This is one of the great challenges of the day. We all want advanced methods. We want to take advantage of scientific development in every changing form; but not at the expense of the consumer, or the people as a whole. To say little of the operation of a mark-up which changed prices from 33 per cent over cost, to 40 and 48 per cent, and which became such a problem south of the line, these are problems we must tackle before we can be prepared to call our institutions democratic.

CAN BE SETTLED

"I believe that without a great deal of government intervention, it will be possible to settle these problems by the individual approach of business. What with our marvelous surroundings, and natural heritage in Canada, we should be able to regulate our business in full recognition of the deep underlying privilege of life itself, and the fullness thereof," Mr. Stevens concluded, to thunderous applause.

A capacity audience of more than 300 persons drawn from the public and business life of the community paid Mr. Stevens the tribute of listening, without motion or sound, for well over an hour. His address later was characterized as an outstanding and statesmanlike contribution, noticeably devoid of political color.

GIVEN HEARTY OVATION

Introduced by Herbert Anscomb, M.P.P., as a Westerner who has signally distinguished himself in Canadian affairs, Mr. Stevens was tendered at the close of his address with a warm vote of thanks by Major R. H. B. Ker.

Members of the Provincial Government, members of Federal and Provincial Houses, mayors and reeves of Vancouver, Victoria and surrounding districts, and a tremendous turnout of business leaders attended the luncheon, arrangements for which had been made by the Canadian Club, the Chamber of Commerce, and other business groups.

Mr. Stevens was showered with congratulations later, and was kept busy for half an hour wringing the hands of those who wished to compliment him on his courageous remarks.

ROYAL THEATRE IS TO REOPEN

To Be "Made Over" for Pictures, Famous Players Announce

Royal Victoria Theatre, built in 1912, and for many years the Capital City's popular playhouse, is to be reopened for sound pictures, it was announced here, last night, by L. Bearg, district supervisor of Famous Players Canadian Corporation for British Columbia, who is in the city in connection with the preliminary arrangements.

Another announcement of interest to Victoria theatre-goers is that Clifford Denham, former manager of the Royal, is to be in charge of the house. Mr. Denham has been in Nanaimo for the past eleven weeks, as manager of the company's playhouse there.

The decision to reopen the Royal Theatre was made by corporation officials after careful survey of the conditions in Victoria, already supplied by a number of theatres, and the increasing demands for additional "first class" pictures, were mainly responsible for reopening the Royal.

TO BE "MADE OVER"

No announcement could be made of the date of opening, as there is a large amount of work to be done before the Royal is "made over," to be in keeping with the class of entertainment to be offered to the public.

It is the plan of the corporation to completely redecorate the interior, provide a new entrance, new lighting facilities for house and stage, as well as Neon signs for the main entrance. Ladies' retiring rooms will be renovated, and every department of the big theatre will undergo alteration. The biggest job will be to secure carpet for the floorings.

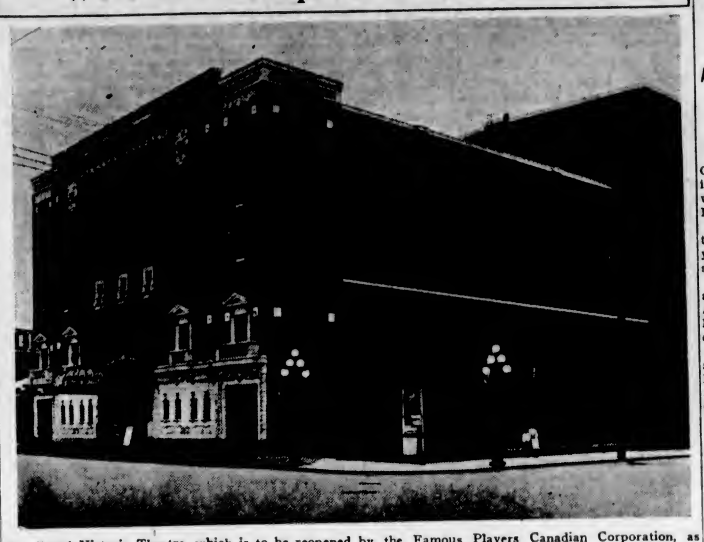

The corporation will install the latest Radio Corporation of America talking equipment, for which a new operating box will be required. The stage will have special decorations and lighting, and the mechanical equipment will be in charge of a competent staff.

Mr. Bearg stated that all work would be done by local labor and, as far as possible, all materials would be purchased in the city. When operating, the theatre will require a staff of from twenty to twenty-five persons.

JOE E. BROWN IS STAR AT CAPITOL

"The Circus Clown" Is Brilliant Color Story of Life Under "The Big Top"

With all its color, its action, its blare and heraldry, the circus—both as seen in the ring and as lived behind the tent drops—will be shown on the screen of the Capitol Theatre, where Joe E. Brown will appear in the First National picture "The Circus Clown" today.

One of the greatest comedians in the history of filmdom, who has actually lived the life he depicts, for Joe E. Brown was a circus acrobat as a boy, Brown has been given a vehicle that allows his marked talents full sway, and, supported by an exceptionally capable company, including the entire cast of the Al G. Barnes circus, he brings to his audience a screamingly funny comedy that is replete with love interest, and which at times has touches of pathos that stop the laughter with a hint of tears.

Patricia Ellis plays the leading feminine role opposite Joe and is the aerialist with whom he finally falls in love, although when he first joins the circus he is madly infatuated with a bareback rider who is a female impersonator. This love affair makes him the butt of no end of jokes until he finally discovers that his enamorata is a man.

COLUMBIA THEATRE Adolphe Menjou and Claude Allister will be seen for the last times today at the Columbia Theatre in "Blame the Woman," a thrilling adventure story filmed in England. As the added attraction, the theatre is showing Rex Bell in "Rainbow Ranch."

DOMINION THEATRE For nine years Director Sam Wood had been promising Mrs. Wood a trip to Europe. Director Wood promised again this year, but a director was needed for the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture "Stanboul Quest," now playing at the Dominion Theatre, and Wood got the job. Hearing about the new assignment, Mrs. Wood refused to tour the travel bureaus for the ninth time. But the trip was a reality this time. Director Wood completed the picture in record time, in time to fly across the continent and catch the Isle de France on June 16 last.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE Basil Dean's latest screen success from stage plays is "Autumn Crocus," now at the Playhouse, the C. L. Anthony story which Mr. Dean staged originally at the Lyric Theatre, London, and which ran for nearly 400 performances.

EMPIRE THEATRE That renowned musical comedy star, Jose Collins, whose voice has thrilled the public the world over in such successes as "The Maid of the Mountains" and "The Southern Maid," appears for the first time in a talkie at the Empire Theatre, where "Facing the Music" is showing. Her film debut was made in America when she played in a silent screen version of "The Light that Failed."

Miss Rutledge will sing "All I Do Is Dream of You" and "On the Wrong Side of the Fence." She will appear at 10:30 o'clock, and early reservation is advisable.

HITLER MAKES APPEAL FOR REICH ELECTION

opinion here and abroad by endless intrigues, thereby adding to the already existing international uncertainty."

Turning again to what he called Germany's enemies, he said: "We have wicked enemies in the world. We may do what we can, but a wicked international clique always will interpret it wrongly. They live in the hope of seeing our people plunged again into internal discord."

ELECTION SUNDAY

His address in this hard-hit season was the climax of a whirlwind campaign which will culminate on Sunday in the plebiscite—in which Germans are asked to sanction Hitler's assumption of presidential powers.

He emphasized, again and again, that only a centralized government can cope with the problems of finance, religion and politics.

A comparatively small audience applauded, especially his asides.

To some neutral observers the speech marked a big stride forward from July 13, when, in the Reichstag, he gave his explanation of the killings in connection with his "purge" of June 30. Then he seemed tired and discouraged. Today he was earnest and forceful.

ASKS FOR TIME

Hitler asked for time to work out his political philosophy, and asserted his sole aim is Germany's welfare.

"For all the future it shall be my endeavor," he said, "to set to it that the political conduct of the state shall rest in the hands of the National Socialist Party and that the only bearers of arms shall be the army.

"The people must know:

"First, the German Reich will never surrender its honor and its right to equality.

"Secondly, the German Government is filled with unqualified desire to contribute its utmost toward preservation of peace in this world."

Hitler then turned to an open threat against anyone daring to interfere with the Nazi programme. He is ready, he indicated, to resort again to force.

TOLL OF TRAFFIC IN BRITAIN INCREASES

LONDON, Aug. 17 (CP).—Despite the drive for more safety on the highways, 126 persons were killed and 5,595 injured on the roads of Great Britain, last week.

This is the second highest total recorded since the Ministry of Transport started publishing the weekly totals.

DEATH CLAIMS OLD RESIDENT

Ald. H. E. Wallis, Courtenay, Succumbs in Comox Hospital

Alderman Hubert Edward Wallis, Courtenay druggist, died yesterday in St. Joseph's Hospital, Comox, word received here last night said. He was a former Victoria resident.

Born in England, Mr. Wallis came to British Columbia thirty-eight years ago, and had been engaged since that time in pharmacy.

In Arrowhead, Mr. Wallis served as school trustee, magistrate and Anglican Church warden. While in Kelowna, he was a member of that city's polo team.

He came to Victoria and was for some time in the Hillside Pharmacy, here. He moved to Cobble Hill, and since had resided in Duncan and Courtenay.

SEVEN YEARS ON COUNCIL

He was a member of the Courtenay City Council for seven years, holding the post of chairman of the finance committee, and was considered a valued alderman, devoting himself particularly to improving and beautifying the city.

He is survived by his widow, and two sons by a former marriage, Major P. R. M. Wallis, Shanghai, and H. Douglas Wallis, on the teaching staff at Victoria High School.

Funeral services will be held today in Courtenay at 2 o'clock.

MINISTER HEARS CITY'S CLAIMS

Hon. H. H. Stevens to Consider Representations and Consult Colleagues

Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, during his visit to Victoria yesterday, had placed before him the views of the City Council suggested by other bodies such as the Chamber of Commerce, embracing the suggestion that the Dominion Government should make provision for the erection of an auditorium here.

The subject of the changing of the site for the Marine Building planned, from the western side of the harbor to the vicinity of the postoffice, was urged upon the minister, and also the views of the council with respect to altering the basis of unemployment assistance whereby a stabilized rate of wages would be paid in connection with Dominion works.

INTRODUCES DELEGATION

The delegation was introduced by D. B. Plunkett, M.P., who also heard the arguments advanced by the Mayor and others composing the delegation. Those in the delegation were Mayor David Leeming, Aldermen John Worthington, Walter Luney and J. D. Hunter representing the City Council, and G. H. Stevens, James Parfitt and R. H. B. Ker, of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Stevens heard the representations put forward and assured the delegation that he would consider the arguments and bring them to the attention of the ministers who were directly interested.

TOURISTS IMPORTANT

In connection with the proposed auditorium, the argument was advanced that the tourist industry was of great importance in this city. The uses to which such a building could be put in Victoria were outlined as very essential in attracting people to the city and for the entertaining of them while here with the consequent distribution of money within Victoria.

The financial situation today did not lend itself to the obtaining of private money in such an undertaking. There was a surplus of labor and materials which were readily available for the undertaking, it was pointed out. There were 1,260 more persons in the sawmill industry now registered for unemployed relief than was the case in 1932.

DEVELOPED INDUSTRIES

The assessment figures of the city were cited to the minister in the presentation, showing the added burden having to be borne and the falling off in the lands paying taxes. Victoria had spent over one million dollars in developing the tourist and related industries.

The suggestion was made that the Dominion might, after erection of such a building representing a quarter of a million dollars, turn the structure over to the city to be operated on a rental basis.

In the matter of the Marine Building, the suggestion was offered that it should be planned on a very much larger scale than the $100,000 about to be spent. It could then be possible to expend what was available with provision for later extensions.

A little church in Northern Manitoulin Island, Ont., is to receive the stone figure of an angel which was part of the exterior decoration of the Houses of Parliament in London. It is the Church of St. Francis of Assisi of the Church of England mission and in its structure will be stonework from St. Paul's Cathedral, Canterbury Cathedral and York Minister.

INVITATION IS EXTENDED HERE

Visitor Would Have Victorians See Women Folk and Horse Flesh of Kentucky

Victoria people, generally, have been given an invitation to visit Louisville, Kentucky, where the women are reputed to be the prettiest in the world, and the race horses the fastest in the country. The informal invitation was extended by T. Minary, last night, at the Empress Hotel. With his wife and daughter, Miss Emelia S. Minary, he is enjoying the beauties of this city.

With the wagon, whisky, and tobacco-manufacturing plants running at high speed, unemployment problems are fast decreasing, Mr. Minary said, in speaking of general conditions in Kentucky. Street railways, which the visitor declared are always indicative of the trend of the times in Kentucky, are once again prospering as the factory men are going back to work.

POSTPONEMENT OF TAX SALE URGED

Saanich Ratepayers' Association to Petition Council—Reasons Are Presented

Because many ratepayers will this year find difficulty in meeting tax payments, Ward Seven Saanich Ratepayers' Association last night decided to petition the municipal council, seeking to defer the 1934 tax sale for one year. The meeting was held in Tillicum School.

Speakers quoted press stories which contained Government statements showing that Prince Rupert and Burnaby had been granted permission to allow tax delinquents to work out their arrears on municipal projects. It was pointed out that persons who owed three years' taxes were only eligible for this consideration.

"These other municipalities are getting things like this done for them by commissioners, and so I think the only thing to do is for us to put in a commissioner," declared one ratepayer.

"CALL OFF TAX SALE"

W. J. Waters stated: "Let's go a step further than ask the council to let men work out delinquent taxes. Let's ask them to call off the 1934 tax sale."

"Let's demand it," shouted a spectator.

"No, we'll just ask for it," replied Mr. Waters.

"We'll have to do this thing carefully," remarked E. G. Trevalyan. "We will have to work collectively, and not separately."

It was decided that other ward associations in Saanich will be approached and their endorsement of this policy sought.

A Sunday school class had been reading the Bible story of Joseph, and the minister had come to examine the scholars. The replies to all his questions had been quick, intelligent and correct.

"What great crime did these sons of Jacob commit?"

"They sold their brother Joseph."

"Quite correct; and for how much?"

"Twenty pieces of silver."

"And what added to the cruelty and wickedness of these bad brothers?" (No answer.)

"What made their treachery even more detestable?"

Then wee Tam stretched forth an eager hand. "Well, my little man?"

"Please, sir, they selt him ower cheap!"

PROVINCIAL DEBTS

It is a difficult matter at the moment to believe that the Dominion Government should place its credit behind a system of debt consolidation for the Western Provinces. The proposal is that the debts of the Prairie Provinces and of British Columbia should be refunded by an issue of Federal guaranteed bonds at lower interest rates than those debts are now bearing. A scheme of this character would mean greater security for the investor and a saving of many millions in interest for the taxpayer. It is a desirable consummation, one that was carried out by the Commonwealth Government of Australia with good results. The Western Provinces of this Dominion seem to have landed themselves in much the same position as some of the States of Australia and now there is a desire for the remedy that the Commonwealth Government devised.

British Columbia has a bonded debt of $167,000,000 with carrying charges of some $11,000,000 annually. Alberta, with a bonded debt of $134,000,000, has carrying charges of $6,500,000 Saskatchewan and Manitoba are in an analagous position. The situation for the last few years has been saved by the Federal Government which has been assisting the four Western provinces to meet their interest obligations. The fact that such assistance has been required makes it a matter of logic that the Dominion Government, if only in an advisory capacity, should have some say in the conduct of the provincial finances concerned.

The provinces involved brought themselves into the present unhappy position by policies of spendthrift zeal. It is obvious that, viewed from the standpoint of national unity, the credit of a province is incidental to the credit of the Dominion as a whole. The trouble is that, for the moment, in any plan for refunding provincial debts with the backing of Federal security the financial market must be considered as well as the temper of investors. The Dominion itself is arranging a $400,000,000 refunding operation to be undertaken during the coming Autumn. It does not consider it is a part of financial wisdom to discuss another refunding operation affecting the four Western Provinces involving an equally large sum. Morever, the viewpoint of the other provinces, and particularly Ontario and Quebec, must be taken into consideration. That is the situation. The taxpayers of the West would welcome a refunding measure for provincial debts, particularly if such a plan would place restrictions on future provincial borrowings.

THE COMIC STRIP

How many newspaper readers of today can recall to memory the humorous sayings of Bro. Gard'ner of the Limekiln Club, or the pithy observations of Luke Sharp, or the absurb disputes which disturbed the family life of Mr. and Mrs. Spoopendyke? These characters occupied the stage long before the advent of such moderns as Buster Brown, who was at the height of his popularity perhaps a quarter of a century ago. He appeared in the comic strips and on the stage when moving pictures were a novelty. As the fame of this character has now become somewhat dim, it may be said for the benefit of the younger generation that Buster Brown represented the extremely active or motor type of individual in contrast to his almost equally famous dog, "Tige," who was of a hesitant and reflective habit in his mental processes and conduct.

Mr. Jiggs is quite as widely known to the present generation as Sam Weller was to his. The latter will probably be remembered after Jiggs has been forgotten, but it must be admitted that Mr. Jiggs possesses a number of striking qualities, some of them admirable. He has courageous, buoyant, undefeated spirit, a capacity for taking punishment, a gallant appreciation of feminine charms. He cherishes a pathetic affection and loyal devotion to his incomparable wife. He is true to his friend Dinty Moore, and is utterly devoid of snobbishness. His all too frequent lapses from strict veracity and the violence, injustice, chicane, and false pretences of his daily life have combined to besmirch his reputation. Is Mr. Jiggs a rare type or a common one? Washington Irving, a keen observer of life and manners, said that those men are apt to be obsequious and conciliating abroad who are under the discipline of shrews at home. If this is the general rule Mr. Jiggs is a striking exception. Perhaps the day of Mr. Jiggs is drawing to a close, but along with Mutt and Jeff and the highly unpleasant Gumps he lingers superfluous on the stage.

Uncle Walt, of Gasoline Alley; Auntie Blossom, Skeezix, Corky, and the admirable Rachel have been favorites for a long time, and for excellent reasons, the chief being the healthy, wholesome atmosphere of the household. The young folk of Gasoline Alley are surrounded by good influences and keep close within the bounds of propriety. While Skeezix and Corky are growing older every day, Little Orphan Annie for some reason best known to the artist never seems to grow any older. She has been about eleven or twelve years' old for years and years. At times her mental processes seem remarkably slow, but she usually guesses right, has an abounding natural courage, a kind heart, an invincible optimism, and most characteristic of all, an amazing run of luck.

Much older in years than Annie, though at a standstill in regard to the passage of time, is Tillie the Toiler. Tillie is sophisticated, worldly-wise, perhaps hard-boiled, and certainly a hard lily to pait. She is mostly honest and straightforward, though capable of quite unscrupulous conduct at other times, particularly towards the redoubtable Scot, Mr. Macdougall. Ambition is her middle name. She loves power and the exercise of it. Tillie has been, and is, a prime favorite; although Dixie Dugan, who is quite as good looking, may in time supplant her in the affections of the public.

The artists who depict these characters from day to day in ever changing situations and episodes need much more equipment for their task than the mere ability to draw. Some of the drawing is no doubt extremely clever. The artists have talent, but genius only can create real characters, tragic or comic. Perhaps it would be better to say both tragic and comic; for Socrates believed that the true artist in tragedy is an artist in comedy also.

PRODUCTION FOR USE

No objection can be urged against the expression, Production for Use, if it means nothing more than that the purpose of productive activity is to bring into existence some article or commodity that can be used with advantage, something that will prove helpful to the user and will promote his well-being and happiness, something useful in short. It is when the words "not for profit" are added that difficulties arise. Little objection, perhaps, would be made if the whole phrase, "production for use, not for profit," were intended to suggest that the purpose of production is chiefly for the advantage of the user and only indirectly and incidentally for the profit of the producer; but the slogan probably means that production is to be approved and allowed only when the products are advantageous to the user without affording any private profit to the producer.

It is at this point that one must distinguish between purpose on the one hand and motive on the other. Jones knows that a house is a highly useful thing. He knows that if he builds one it will probably be used, if it is well and properly built. He decides to build, but what is his impelling motive? Let us face the facts from the start. He builds a house that someone can use. It would be folly to build a useless one; and he puts forth all the effort, brain-work, handwork and expenditure of time and money because he is impelled to do so by the hope and expectation of profit.

When the house is built Jones offers it for rent. Smith offers to pay $10 a month for it. Jones declines the offer, pointing out that $120 per annum would only cover taxes, insurance, and repairs. "What more do you want?" inquires Smith; "Production should be done for use, not for profit." Jones replies that it took a long time to save the money for the building and that he might have saved himself all the bother and risk of building by putting his money out at interest. Whereupon Smith exclaims that interest is just as bad as rent and that neither can be justified at the bar of reason, especially if reason has been purified by an infusion of high a priori Socialistic truth. Poor Jones, who has no such fine language at his command, but has to work hard to support himself and his dependents, declines Smith's proposal and rents the house to someone else at a price that affords a return on his investment; and is accounted thereafter (by Smith) as a selfish, greedy, and thrice-accursed capitalist.

A French jurist who was asked if he was in favor of abolishing capital punishment said he was agreeable, but let the assassins begin; let them first set the example. If the profit motive in industry is to be abolished as the ideologues and visionaries demand let them begin by setting a good example. Instead of merely denouncing those who are thrifty and industrious, let the visionaries build a few houses for use and not for profit. Let them show their faith by their works.

Mr. Stanley Baldwin says that he has to admit that "this international finance thing is all Einstein to me." To the Gamaliels and tyros, even to the babes and sucklings of the Socialistic creed it is all as clear as A.B.C. Mr. Baldwin, however, has never been accounted one who brought the doctrine of self sufficiency to bear on his speculations. In that respect he differs from the exponents of theoretic dogma.

To rejoice in another's prosperity is to give content to your own lot; to mitigate another's grief is to alleviate or dispel your own.—T. Edwards.

We must avoid fastidiousness; neatness, when it is moderate, is a virtue; but when it is carried to an extreme, it narrows the mind.—Fenelon.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

Men think to mend their condition by a change of circumstances. They might as well hope to escape their shadows.—Froude.

Economic plans have conceived and brought forth big families of codes and quotas. Dispatches to the newspapers from almost all quarters of the world deal with codes and quotas and tell us of their progress. Some big families get along very well in this still competitive world, but it is a characteristic of all big families that there are generally one or two weaklings among them. Any stock breeder of experience, or any family doctor, will testify to that physical fact. International quotas seem to be all weaklings, and national codes are not getting along as nicely as was expected.

* * *

There is an international conference sitting at the present time discussing the intricate problem of wheat and its quotas. According to statistics prepared for the international wheat conference, the trouble with wheat quotas is that none of them has been strictly observed by exporting nations. In one case a nation has exported far in excess of its allotted quota, while other nations have exported and marketed less than their allotted quotas. The international wheat conference is now considering what shall be done about that problem. The probabilities are that nothing will be done about it, that the international wheat conference will result in nothing being done, which seems to be a characteristic of all international conferences.

* * *

The state of the nation's codes appears to be about the state of the international quotas. The big business of the United States and nearly all the comparatively little businesses of the United States are now being conducted, more or less, under an intricate and confusing network of codes. A dealer in shoes or the vendor of cakes or chewing gum cannot enter into a deal with a customer without risk of contravention of some of the provisions of some code. This is an irksome and irritating state of affairs, because the average individual even in those United States still seems to attach some importance to his independence—he prefers to conduct his business in his own way and maintain control of the goods the gods have sent him, or he has acquired as the fruits of his industry or his knowledge of the ways of business. So the code is obnoxious alike to the man in a big way or a small way of business. It imposes limits upon his individual independence. It fails to make allowances for the peculiarities of human nature.

* * *

General Johnson, hitherto the director of all the codes and the chief of all the codifiers, a day or two ago released a rather startling statement for publication in the newspapers. He stated that the National Recovery Act would soon be abandoned. That statement was startling not only because all the multitude of codes are based upon the N.R.A., but because on his return from his Summer vacation the President declared in a speech that there could be no retreat from the provisions of the New Deal, that, if anything, its codes would be multiplied and its operations improved. Thus there would appear to be a conflict of opinion among the highest authorities as to the healing virtues of the internationally famous National Recovery Act. The boss of the code system has traveled all through the states, and therefore should have a direct knowledge of the effects of the system upon industry, trade, finance and work and wages. The position of the President is not so secure, for Mr. Roosevelt's associations must be more remote, and his opinions must be based largely upon what is told him by politicians. One political leader stater in an interview with newspapermen that General Johnson must resign his position, because his views cannot be reconcical leader stated in an interview President.

* * *

If the ethical codes which govern the relations between public men in the United States were similar to the usual procedure in British countries, the General and his Chief would immediately part company and go along their different ways. But as the boss of the big show General Johnson may believe his position so strong that he runs little risk of decapitation by pointing a gun at the head of his chief. The kernel of the situation is that the codes have become so complicated that they cannot be directed by any individual pulling strings from one central point, and the result is confusion almost amounting to chaos in the business of the United States. Not the least interesting feature of the whole matter is that while large numbers of Americans appear to have lost confidence in the policies of their President, a big majority of the American people have the utmost confidence in the personal integrity and political probity of Mr. Roosevelt.

SUNSHINE CAMP

Sir,—May I be privileged to again appeal to the generous public on behalf of the city of Victoria and surrounding district for financial assistance so as to enable us to carry on the Sunshine Camp at Sasenoos to the end of the term. It is rather unfortunate that the funds have not come in sufficiently to enable us to continue.

It may be of interest to the citizens at large to know that most of the children that are taken out to the Sunshine Camp are facing serious health problems. The two weeks we kept the mothers and children at the camp they have three meals a day, all they can eat and all the milk they wish to drink, no work of any kind but to bathe in the sunshine and rest, and long hours of outdoor play and be away from the noise and confusion of the city streets, which means a great deal to them and which cannot be met if they continue to stay in the city under difficult circumstances.

We are using fifty-five gallons of milk weekly, which means they have all the milk they can drink; seventy-five pounds of meat, and forty-five to fifty loaves of bread. The Sunshine Camp is buying all the fresh eggs, vegetables and fruit daily from the farmers in that district. The management there is under the most economical conditions that could possibly be obtained. The only people receiving any pay are the cook, the camp mother, and the sports director; all the other help which is obtained there is voluntary.

It may be of interest to the community to know that the cook is also a dietician and the camp mother is a trained nurse who has had overseas experience. The sports director arranges different sports and games to amuse and entertain the children and the committee would like to carry on the work until the end of the term, providing funds are available; but as treasurer of the above funds, I greatly fear that we will not be able to continue much longer. The committee realizes the good obtained by the mothers and children from the fact that each mother and child is examined by the city doctor, weighed and weight registered, and on their return to the city we do likewise, hence the committee knows exactly what benefit underprivileged mothers and children derive from those two weeks of rest and good food. All the committee needs is a little more money, and I sincerely hope it will be forthcoming so as to enable us to continue.

The Sunshine Camp is not only for those in Victoria, but we also take families from Saanich, Oak Bay, and Esquimalt. Only by strict economy will the committee be able to continue the work of the camp in taking care of so many mothers and children for the little amount of her budget, namely, which is only $2,000.

The Sunshine Camp fund is entirely independent and kept separate from friendly welfare funds, and every dollar contributed to the Sunshine Camp is not to be used for any other purpose but for the benefit of the under-privileged mothers and children.

F. LANDSBERG,
Treasurer of Sunshine Camp,

BIBLE CRITICS

Sir,—The anti-war movement has brought out many and varied opinions about God's written Word, making it the target of its critics, but as some one of note once remarked, "Surely it is too late in the day to whittle down the infinite authority of this blessed Book!"

If it is just an ordinary book why then bother so much about it; why not leave it alone as, for instance, the Koran or similar religious books. It cannot be denied, however, that the world at large is benefitting by its teachings as it does by no other book. To place other writings above this one is tantamount to preferring candle light to the mighty sunlight.

The Bible at all times has been hit very hard, but the harder the blows the deeper it takes hold of humanity, as a nail which every blow drives deeper into the wood. The Bible, like the anvil, is none the worse for the blows it receives, while it wears out all the hammers used upon it.

The Bible is not infallible because of its great circulation, but it has a great circulation because it is infallible! And this it claims for itself. Some believe that God prophesies the things He wants to happen, whereas He only foretells what He foreknows men will do. Prophecy is history foretold, and history is fulfilled prophecy "foretold." "Wars and rumors of wars" are not of God, but of men!

The modern scoffers ridiculing the so-called "pet ideas," of which the imminent return of the Lord Jesus Christ is but one, are unconsciously fulfilling prophecy, for of them it is said: "In the last days there shall come scoffers saying, 'Where is the promise of His coming?' For since the fathers fell asleep all things continue as they were from the beginning of the creation — for this they willingly are ignorant of!" Noah warned about the flood for 120 long years before it came to pass. The Second Advent is as much a part of the Gospel as is Christ's death and resurrection!

Others wonder how the various books of the Bible were brought together and on whose authority the Apocryphal books were left out! God, Who inspired those more-or-less forty men, living over a period of about fifteen hundred years, to write such a homogenous book as is our Bible, supervised also jealously the assembling together of the various links forming the marvelous chain that His Book is; threatening with a curse all who would add to, or detract from, His complete Word!

A very true remark was made, namely: "Change men's hearts and you change the world!" Only the change is to be effected by the Holy Spirit of God from above — "Ye must be born again!" Until such times, evil (such as war), shall remain with us. Where all human efforts must fail, the Lord Jesus Christ alone, at His return to earth, shall succeed, and "He is our blessed Hope."

"The coming of the Lord draweth nigh — be ye therefore also ready, for in such an hour as ye think not, the Son of Man cometh!"

SCRIPTURAL MEANINGS

Sir,—On page six of today's Colonist, August 15, is a news item, "Preacher Has Picture Taken," having reference to the preacher who, to demonstrate his great faith in God, ten days ago allowed a rattlesnake to bite him and was near death; he refused medical aid but is recovering.

He came to Charlotte, N.C., accompanied by Rev. E. D. Hopkins, pastor of the Cullowee Church of God. He met reporters and answered questions, but was interrupted by telephone calls from all parts of the country asking him to conduct revival services.

One asked the Rev. Mr. Hopkins, "Have you ever let a snake bite you, Mr. Hopkins?" He replied, "No, . . . but to test my faith in God I've wrapped them all around my neck and let them crawl over my body — live rattlesnakes"—"and did they bite you?" "No, God wouldn't let them."

These preachers say they find in the Bible, "They shall take up serpents, and if they drink any deadly thing it shall not hurt them."

True, those words are there, but evidently the preachers do not know that on the authority of Prof. C. Tischendorf's "Notes on the reading of the two oldest Greek manuscripts, The Sinaitic and the Vatican 1209," these words are not found in the oldest manuscripts and are evidently no part of the Divine Word, but have been inserted by copyists."

Yet because of these preachers' supposed wonderful faith in God, and their preservation, they are being sought all over the country to conduct revivals.

We presume they think they are following Jesus, but emotion will not carry anyone into Heaven. They forget that you are the Son of God), jump down from the top of the temple, the pinnacle, for it is written 'He (God) shall give His angels charge concerning Thee and in their hands they shall bear Thee up, lest at any time Thou dash Thy foot against a stone." Did Jesus do it? No, he answered, "It is written again, 'Thou shalt not tempt the Lord Thy God'."

The great Apostle Paul wrote to the church at Corinth, "I fear, lest by any means, as the serpent beguiled Eve through his subtilty, so your minds should be corrupted from the simplicity that is in Christ . . . for such are false apostles, deceitful workers, transforming themselves into the apostles of Christ, and no marvel, for Satan himself is transformed into an angel of light, therefore it is no great thing if his ministers also be transformed as the ministers of righteousness, whose end shall be according to their works."

ELLEN M. HOGARTH,

DOMESTIC SERVICE

Sir,—In yesterday's issue of The Colonist, I noticed an advertisement which read: "Cheerful, economical girl for general housework; sleep in; $12.00 per month."

Will the employer ever realize that it takes brains, time, patience and practice to become economical, and anyone should be ashamed to offer that girl less than $20 a month.

Let the employer try it and see how she would like to do all the housework and cooking (not to mention looking after the children in the "spare?" time) for $12 a month. There are a lot of little jobs around the house, which only take a jiffy, that no one ever thinks about.

But the lady of the house may say: "Oh, but I can do it all and look after my children too." Yes. If the children get proper attention, the house is neglected, and vice versa. Then why does she need help? Because she is worn out with doing it herself; but, of course, the girl is not expected to get tired. Twelve dollars a month is only pocket money for a beginner, and most of us girls have to help keep the home going. When one employs a stenographer one expects to pay her properly, because she has studied; and let me tell you that a girl who is to be successful in the home has to study. Why should a house worker be expected to work just as hard, or harder, for next to nothing?

If she works only twelve hours a day, with one afternoon and evening a week, and every second Sunday off, she is working for only 3 21-33c an hour.

RUTH E. HOGARTH.

POLITICAL LEANINGS

Sir,—I have been a Conservative for forty years, and am no longer a Conservative, and would like to determine my present leanings.

Am I a Liberal? Not quite.

Am I a C.C.F.? Not quite.

Am I a Socialist? No.

The reason that I abandoned Conservatism is that it seemed to realize less than the other parties the nature of the gravity of the malady that society is suffering from. The other parties, seeing the serious conditions with a clearer view, still cannot diagnose the case correctly or prescribe a remedy. Is there a full set of parts in existence to build up a smooth-running and satisfactory social state, and is there intelligence available to assemble the parts and a knowledge of the functions of the different parts. If so, the civilized world is in a good position yet.

What is the trouble? Is it in the industrial system? Has the industrial system, as far as we can learn from history, ever been more perfect than at present? Has labor ever been more skilful? Is the industrial system and what we call the economic system the same thing, or can we examine them separately for the sake of diagnosis? Is money an important part in the construction of a social scheme? The Socialists claim that it is of minor importance.

The other parties see or feel that it is an essential part, but have a vague idea of its proper functions, and try to gather it into immense piles and claim ownership, overlooking the fact that it is of little value if not circulating. To them, circulation means passing it from hand to hand in any direction as long as it moves.

Let us look at some other circulatory system. Take the blood in the body. Here we see a complete circulation. The same blood is used time after time, the motive power in the heart, which is provided with valves and powerful muscles to propel and maintain a steady and constant flow through the whole body. Money is the life blood of the economic system, and if any part of the system is not supplied it shrivels and dies as certainly as a limb would if not supplied with blood.

With the editor's kind permission I will call this Part I, and try to finish my argument in a subsequent letter. EVAN HOOSON.

GERMANY

Sir,—Regarding Germany, the information we get from time to time occasions a little reflection on our part. The fundamentals of the two nations, the Germans and ourselves, though not exactly dissimilar, are certainly not the same. We should seek to find some fixed point whereby Germany becomes intelligible to us—or be prepared for differences to consolidate, and the efforts of the imagination to become sterile when we wish to put ourselves in other men's shoes.

What, may we ask, is Germany's conception of Reason? Unlike most nations, she does not believe in the intrinsic reasonableness of things. She is inclined to think that this would presuppose and tag her with a spiritual constitution which she genuinely thinks the German does not possess. To her all life is being, is movement; she believes thoroughly in her destiny, although she does not quite know where. That is why she mistrusts reason as a moral principle, and half shy of the regulations (which come with reason) which cover every contingency.

For ourselves, reason may be conceived as a guiding principle; in short, an instrument of order, and when based on moral calculations will prove that if things are allowed to take their course they will, in time, appear as reasonable and true.

Again, like a bolt from the blue, her loneliness suddenly became her consolation. A philosophical people, they no longer look heavenwards, but within themselves, and outwards they sought and found solace within the, tender heart of Nature.

Further, highly imbued with nationalism, she is not greatly concerned with comparison. She feels the last is expedient only to those who cannot reach the heart of things. Hence, to our minds, much of her thought appears egoistical and subjective.

She might answer us as follows: Yes, to you, we Germans appear egotistical and subjective; but, remember, we place the essence of things in their deep relation to ourselves (rather than something else), and because of this something incommensurable within us, we, in shaping our destiny, will automatically prove to ourselves and to the world that our philosophy is at once "objective," and of value to the world.

To most of us, her militarism is also paradoxical. But to the German I do not think it is always a symbol of aggression. To Germany, militarism is invariably a consequence of freedom, and she cannot quite understand the radical diversity of other souls which make freedom so precious out of this diversity.

Lastly, her attitude towards work is unique. She loves work for work's sake, and expects no rest for the twilight of the years.

Let me say that I do not, in any way whatever, admit the present policies of Germany; but, assuming that it is our desire to mould and arbitrate with the wonderful people who have given so much to thought, may I make a plea that we endeavor to understand her—while not necessarily agreeing with her.

THE SEA AND THIS SOUL OF MINE

Oh mighty sea that cannot rest,
Thy life's but endless energy;
I stand upon thy rocky shores
And see my soul in effigy.
Eternally bound as thou art
Within the confines of thy shore,
Eager to break thy chafing chains,
As my restless spirit longs to pour
Its dark moods of uncertainty
Into a saving flood of light,
To guide my unknown destiny
Through changing days and years of life.

Fight on, dear heart, and mighty sea!
I know the perfect day will come,
When God will say to thee and me,
"Peace be still."

The time used is Pacific standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of low water.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Esquimalt drydock, add 18.9 feet to the height of high water as above given.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Bonsbees drydock, add 20 feet to the height of high water as above given.

The Meteorological Observatory, Gonzales Heights, Victoria, B.C.

Henry arrived home late, and his wife was giving him a piece of her mind. He protested in strong terms against her accusations.

"I mean exactly what I say," he asserted. "I'm a man who calls a spade a spade."

His wife nodded.

"Maybe, Henry," she said, with biting sarcasm, "but you don't call a club a club; you call that working late at the office."

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Daily British Colonist of August 19, 1884)

Robert Beaven—The public will be very sorry to learn that the leader of the Opposition is confined to his room by illness. All will join with us in expressing the hope that he may soon be restored to his usual good health.

Clearance Sale—The Victoria House clearance sale having been brought to a successful termination, the store will be closed for fourteen days to complete the improvements, and will reopen on the first day of September with a complete stock of new goods. The proprietor will be in attendance daily to receive and pay accounts.

Garrison Artillery—At a meeting of this local corps last evening, four proposals were discussed, viz.: An excursion to New Westminster; a picnic at Langford Lake; a picnic to the Driving Park, or a ball. Decision was postponed until Thursday evening, at 8 o'clock, when it is hoped there will be a full attendance.

New School Opened—The Johnson Street Ward School was opened yesterday morning by the superintendent of education. Thirty pupils were present, thus relieving the Central School of at least twenty little ones. It is expected that within a week over forty names will be on the roll.

MANY VISITORS ARE RECORDED

Annual Report of Provincial Museum Shows Interest Taken in Exhibits

Approximately 19,700 visitors registered in the guest book at the Provincial Museum last year, and a total of 45,500 are believed to have gone through the building, according to the annual report of Francis Kermode, the director. Many distinguished people are included in the list, which embraces members of the Fifth Pacific Science Congress, held in Victoria last Summer.

DONORS THANKED

Donors thanked included R. H. Pooley, K.C.; Miss Bertrand, M. Lohbrunner, A. N. Gartrell, D. P. Simpson, Dr. Clemens, G. V. Wilby, W. Spreadborough, and F. Beech. Mr. Kermode attended Eastern museum meetings in Canada and the United States, including an interesting trip to the new Provincial Museum at Toronto.

Mention is made of the activities of the resident staff in collecting native plants, which formed a source of instruction to normal and other schools in the area. The annual report, attractively illustrated, is now ready for distribution.

A family moved from the city to the suburbs and were told they ought to get a watchdog to guard the premises at night. So they bought the largest dog that was for sale in the kennels of a nearby dealer.

Shortly afterwards the house was entered by burglars, who made a good haul while the dog slept. The householder went to the dealer and told him about it.

"Well, what you need now," said the dealer, "is a little dog to wake up the big dog!"

Recovery Coming From Confidence In Natural Plan

Steady Growth of External and Domestic Trade, With Growing Commerce on Two Oceans, Marks Definite Advance by Canada in Six Months This Year, Says Hon. H. H. Stevens

BACKED by the confidence of visibly returning trade, Canada has set her foot firmly on the ladder of recovery, and will advance by natural and sure-footed steps, Hon. H. H. Stevens, Federal Minister of Trade and Commerce, declared yesterday, on arrival from the Mainland, on a brief visit. Steady increases in domestic and external trade, release by private enterprise of construction programmes running into hundreds of millions, and a gradual quickening of substantial assets on the Prairies and otherwise, will all aid in the advance, he predicted.

Mr. Stevens instanced his remarks by a review of the general and broad advance made by Canadian business in the first six months of this year. This included a 30 per cent increase in exports and a gain of 11 per cent in imports, compared with a like period in last year. Increases were marked in iron and steel production, in carloadings, in electrical energy supplied, in the whole range of wholesale prices indices, and finally in retail trade.

BUILDING NEEDS

Supporting the advance in trade, the Dominion, through its $40,000,000 programme of public works, hopes to give a lead to private enterprise for the release of needed building and construction, which have retarded requirements measuring between $300,000,000 and $400,000,000. Repairs, alterations, improvements, and new construction are two to three years behind normal needs. The rebirth of confidence is expected to free a material proportion of this work through private initiative.

From a normal volume of $300,000,000 yearly, construction fell to $50,000,000 in each of the last few years. This has piled up requirements to the extent of hundreds of millions. The aim of the Federal works programme is to give impetus to reconstruction along these lines, it being recognized that on business itself will fall the chief responsibility.

ON TWO OCEANS

Both on Atlantic and Pacific Coasts the external trade of Canada is marching ahead, Mr. Stevens indicated. Exports of flour, lumber, fruits, canned goods, automobiles, fish, and many other goods are steadily gaining.

Imports have also increased, with a marked advance in imports from British Empire sources.

Under treaty arrangements, South Africa is buying freely from Canada, instanced by three extra sailings from the East in July, and a recent single shipment of 1,500 Canadian cars from Montreal for that country. The growth in lumber sailings on the Pacific has been very marked, involving nearly all British countries.

GENERAL INCREASES

"There is not a single item in the economic schedules that does not show substantial increases for the first six months of this year. Production of iron and steel was up 230 per cent. Exports advanced 30 per cent. Imports gained 11 per cent. Carloadings were increased between 10 and 11 per cent, despite a slow start with wheat movements. Wheat shipments will be much brisker in the second half, and early next year. Electrical energy gained by 20 per cent, and is one of the best general indications. The wholesale price index was up both in comparison to 1913 and 1926 as alternative base years. Retail trade, the last to move, increased appreciably in the last few months," Mr. Stevens said.

On the Prairies, operation of the Federal farm credit plan would relieve farmers of some of the burden of their difficulties. Higher returns for wheat, despite a short crop, meant much to the Prairies. Material improvement would be seen there in the next few months. If the price of wheat can be maintained somewhere above 75 cents per bushel, the whole position of Prairie communities would improve, though complete recovery would of necessity be gradual.

TO CONTINUE INQUIRY

Mr. Stevens said the commission inquiring into price spreads and business practices would definitely resume this Fall. He had been criticized for his actions in regard to the inquiry, but had found that most of the criticisms came from sources believing they were directly hit. He had endeavored to be fair, and to refrain from prejudging the issue in any respect. It was to the best interest of business to put its own house in order, he intimated.

Relief problems in Canada were still acute, though a great deal of over-stress had been laid on some features of the situation. There would have to be more segregation yet of those who did not want work, and of the seasonal worker, formerly self-supporting.

FEDERAL ISSUE SOON

Asked as to a programme of Federal refunding, Mr. Stevens said arrangements for a Federal loan were being worked out by Hon. E. N. Rhodes. An announcement, he indicated, may be made within a month. Federal refunding requirements would be several hundred millions, but the exact amount of the issue would be determined by Mr. Rhodes.

In the opinion of the Federal Minister of Trade and Commerce, there will be no Federal general election until next year, with no immediate prospect of a poll before then. During the day Mr. Stevens received a delegation of prominent Victoria Conservatives, and is privately understood to have told them the same thing. The opinion, however, was given without official implications.

AN ACTIVE DAY

Landing from the boat as soon as she docked from Vancouver, Mr. Stevens put in an active day here, receiving delegations, reviewing the proposed sites of the new Federal Marine Building, and in meeting Dominion resident officials. At noon he was the honor guest of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, the Canadian Club and other business groups at a luncheon where he was the featured speaker.

While he listened to representations made about building projects here, Mr. Stevens was non-committal, promising to take the several issues up with the Dominion Government. He was scheduled to leave on the night boat for Vancouver.

BURIED AT ROYAL OAK

The funeral of the late Mrs. Margaret Scott took place yesterday afternoon, Mr. Ede, of the Salvation Army, officiating. In the presence of friends, during which the hymns, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus" and "How Sweet the Name of Jesus Sounds," were sung. The remains were laid at rest in Royal Oak Burial Park.

Little Bedtime Stories

Bowser the Hound Turns Back

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

When Farmer Brown's boy had dug away down to the very bottom of the house in which Reddy Fox had lived with Old Granny Fox and had found no one at home, he thought that Reddy had simply gone out.

You see, he didn't once think that Reddy might have moved. Ol' Mistah Buzzard, sailing high up in the blue, blue sky, had looked down and grinned as he saw how hard Farmer Brown's boy was working, and all for nothing.

Now Bowser the Hound had been sniffing around while his master was digging, and he found just a wee, wee trace of Granny and Reddy Fox. It was a good many hours since they had been along there, but there was still just a tiny bit of scent in some of their tracks, just enough to keep Bowser sniffing and sniffing for more. Bowser noticed that it led away from the house which Farmer Brown's boy was working so hard to dig open.

"I don't believe there's anyone at home," said Bowser to himself. "I'll just try to follow these tracks and perhaps I will discover something."

So Bowser the Hound, who is very, very patient, kept sniffing as he ran back and forth this way and that way. Every once in a while he would get such a strong smell of Grany or Reddy Fox that he would open his big mouth and shout "Bow wow" at the top of his lungs. His master was so busy digging that he took no notice at all, and so gradually Bowser's voice sounded fainter and fainter as he got farther and farther away.

Slowly but surely Bowser the Hound was tracking Old Granny Fox and Reddy Fox to the old deserted house which Granny Fox had chosen for a hiding place. Granny was out watching Farmer Brown's boy dig open her old home and did not pay much attention to Bowser the Hound until she heard an extra loud "Bow wow" over in the direction of the old house where she had left Reddy asleep. Then her heart fell down, down to her very shoes. She knew what it meant. She knew that Bowser would surely find the old deserted house.

"Wow!" yelled Bowser

"Oh, dear!" sighed Granny Fox. "I expect I've got to lead that dog way over in the old pasture on the edge of the mountain and fool him there again as I did yesterday. Oh, dear! It's dreadfully hot to run. And I haven't had a mite of breakfast. Oh, dear!"

You remember that Bowser the Hound never looks where he is going when following a track. He just runs with his nose to the ground. So, as usual, he didn't use his eyes this time. So he almost ran right into Prickly Porky the Porcupine, who was taking a sun bath on the doorstep of the old house in which Reddy Fox was hiding.

"Wow!" yelled Bowser, and, putting his tail between his legs, he started back for his master as fast as he could run, for Bowser the Hound is very much afraid of the thousand little spears which Prickly Porky carries in his coat.

"Oh, My POOR LEGS!
"I simply must sit down!"

THAT awful fatigue: do you know it? That agonizing pain; have you suffered it? Do your legs throb and burn until you "simply must sit down"? Are you hampered in your work and your pleasure by that sensation of weight and weariness in the limbs? In short, do you suffer from Varicose Veins? Varicose Veins are not merely a source of discomfort and weariness but, together with kindred ailments, they undermine the health, give rise to acute conditions of debility, impose hampering restrictions and often endanger the very life of the sufferer.

You Need Suffer No Longer!

Get on your feet now! Free yourself from aches and pains and weariness! Be active and enjoy life like other people! Send at once for a free sample of Elasto and interesting literature. Long and patient research has at last revealed the true cause of leg troubles—a deficiency in the blood—and an entirely new treatment is the result. Elasto restores to the blood the vital elements that combine with albumin to form elastic tissue and thus enables Nature to effect repair in a perfectly normal manner.

Test Elasto Free

Every sufferer should know of this wonderful new blood treatment which quickly brings ease and comfort and creates within the system a new health force overcoming diseased conditions, increasing vitality and bringing into full activity Nature's own laws of healing. Elasto is prepared in tiny tablets which instantly dissolve on the tongue and it is one of the pleasantest, cheapest and most effective treatments ever devised. We invite you to test Elasto Free. An interesting descriptive booklet, together with Free Sample and copies of recent testimonials, will be sent post free, privately, to all readers of this paper, or their friends, on receipt of name and address. Write for these to-day, now, and judge for yourself if Elasto is not the very treatment you have been longing for.

ANSWER TO YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE

CLOSE BIBLE STUDY SCHOOL

Central Vacation School for Children Ends With Concert Programme

Children, ranging from three to fourteen years of age, who for the past three weeks have received a definite lead in character culture by means of handiwork, song, play, worship and Bible memorization, brought the Central Vacation School to a close, yesterday, with a concert and display of their work at the Metropolitan United Church.

Of the 139 pupils enrolled, coming from churches of many denominations, sixty-five received certificates of merit at the close of yesterday's programme.

Mothers and fathers were treated to an interesting programme by pupils of primary, junior and intermediate classes, which was opened by greetings sung by primary classes of boys and girls.

STORIES TOLD

Isabel Brown and Dorothy Wiles rendered a vocal duet, which was well received, as was the vocal solo given by Douglas George.

The stories of four great paintings were told by pupils. The paintings, "Christ and the Fisherman," by Zimmerman; "Jesus Christ," by Colonel Todde; "Christ and the Rich Young Ruler," by Hoffman, and "The Angelus," by Millet, were explained by Jack McCall, Monica Moore, Richard Wright and Irene Lindley, respectively.

Piano solos were rendered by Gertrude Lane, Margaret Strothern and Richard Higgins.

The junior and primary classes added a number of children's songs to the programme, and the latter group closed the concert with prayers.

WORK EXHIBITED

Much of the woodwork and handiwork done by the pupils, and which was exhibited, will be donated to needy families. Girls of the junior class, from nine to eleven years of age, knitted a woolen blanket of varied hues, a baby quilt and a doll cover, while the junior boys constructed a number of fine airplane models, which will be sent to children in the Solarium.

Teachers responsible for the training of the children were Miss M. Brown, Miss D. Scott, Miss N. Thompson, Miss S. Crawford, Miss G. Gascoigne, Miss P. Stipe, Miss J. Trotter, Miss P. Bensen, Mr. Atkins, Miss P. Phillips and Mrs. G. A. A. Hebden. The school principal was Mrs. Maude Hammond, who was assisted by Rev. J. H. A. Warr and Mrs. M. Naysmith.

The Central Vacation School was sponsored by the Religious Education Council, and drew children from the following denominations: Anglican, Baptist, City Temple, Presbyterian, United, Gospel Hall, Lions' Sunday School, Salvation Army.

FLAMING FORESTS MENACING HOMES

the roar of the flames as the fire reached the gorge. Following an exceptionally strong gust of wind that sent the smoke swirling skyward in dense volumes, they saw a spot fire start on the east side of the mountain behind the Blaylock home, a second appearing almost at the same instant. Within fifteen minutes, they stated, the fire had spread and covered about three acres. R. E. Allen, in charge of forestry operations here, had a pump taken up to the Blaylock intake, and about twenty men were stationed in that region.

LIKE FURNACE

The roar of the flames was comparable to the sound of a blast furnace as they raced to two and three hundred feet at a time through the tops of the trees. Down near the lake shore some of the residents were packing, some were spraying vegetation around their homes, while another had his sprayer going at full blast on the top of his house.

With the strong, swiftly changing wind continuing as it has been during the past days, little can be done with the fires It is too hazardous for the fire fighters to attempt to either backfire or work any kind of guard line in the van of the fire. The mountain slope in that area is steep and treacherous and the men can do nothing at night.

RANCHES IN DANGER

SALMO, Aug. 17 (CP).—Another baptism of fire started from a spot fire this afternoon, submerging the Nelson-Nelway highway this time on the Salmo side of the Sheep Creek bridge over the Salmo River, four miles from Salmo.

Thirty fire fighters, under W. Miller, are on this side of the fire, protecting the ranch buildings and hay of the ranches of Archie Bremner and two Doukhobor women, and an equal number are on the other side, working to save the Sheep Creek bridge.

MINERS ISOLATED

The Sheep Creek road, which takes off from the through highway about 200 yards this side of Sheep Creek bridge, is, of course, cut, this being the third time in three weeks that the mining camp has been isolated, while the mountainside on the upper side of the through highway is a mass of flames.

While Bremner's Clearing has formed a northern boundary for the flames, on the side of the highway toward the river, at the highway itself, it is free of fires from that point north.

The flames possess most of the mountainside that is a stone's throw from the highway on the upper side, and along that line the fire belt tonight was probably a mile wide, with new spot fires carrying the fiery contagion forward in big leaps high up on the ridges. It is opposite the airport.

BUILDINGS BURNING

The condition south of the fire is not known but just before 6 o'clock, when large vehicles got through, two log cabins just this side of the bridge, and formerly used as garages, were burning, with the fire fighters forced back across the bridge. The fire looked as if it would follow up the bank of Sheep Creek. If this occurred it might connect with a new burn made by the fires of recent weeks.

ACROSS BORDER

SPOKANE, Aug. 17 (AP).—The elements today joined to make man's task of bringing numerous Northwest forest fires under control, the most difficult of the season.

Lightning, dry weather and wind gave foresters a bad afternoon, Howard Flint, district chief, said, in describing conditions in the Selway National Forest of Central Idaho, where nearly 20,000 acres have been burned over by several uncontrollable blazes.

New fires have broken out north and south of Spokane, with one of incendiary origin in the Pend Oreille on the Pack River, northwest of Sandpoint, Idaho, giving 500 fighters a hot battle. Two thousand acres were ablaze.

In the Kootenay Valley, near the Canadian line, 150 men were battling a small but stubborn fire. In the Kaniksu forest near Ruby, a forty-acre blaze was demanding attention.

CAMP BURNED

Lightning started a new group of fires in the Selway Thursday, where crews are fighting three major burns. One outfit of fighters fled before the flames as the fire engulfed their camp. Supplies were saved.

In the Pot Mountain region of the Clearwater Forest in Idaho, an army of men were gradually bringing a blaze under control. Southward in the Nez Perce Forest lightning last night started a new crop of fires, which were keeping crews busy today.

"The situation is critical," said Mr. Flint. "We need rain, and need it badly, to prevent even more serious difficulties. Every spark now starts a fire."

All available men were fighting an inferno in the Plumas National Forest of Northern California.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"MY MIND TO ME A "KINGDOM IS"

A reader inquires for the source of this expression which so aptly epitomizes the wealth of resources within the individual himself.

The man or woman to whom the mind is a kingdom, over whose subjects is exercised proper dominion is rare, fortunate and happy indeed. And it was to him that the poet Edward Dyer, who lived in the latter part of the sixteenth century referred when he penned the line in question in the verse:

My mind to me a kingdom is;
Such present joys therein I find,
That it excels all other bliss
That earth affords or grows by kind:
Though much I want which most would have,
Yet still my mind forbids to crave."

City and District

Held Chambers—Judge J. Charles McIntosh held chambers in the County Court, yesterday. There were only a few unimportant applications brought before the court for consideration.

Election Deferred—Because of the small attendance, Ward Seven Saanich Ratepayers' Association last night decided to defer election of officers until the next monthly meeting. The meeting was held in Tillicum School.

Postponed Meeting—Owing to the absence of members of the Oak Bay Council from the city, it has been impossible to have a quorum present for the meeting of that body, this week. It is anticipated that the council will meet next Thursday afternoon.

Leaves City—Former Fire Chief Thomas Watson left for Vancouver last night with his eight-year-old grandson, Gerald Elliiot, champion Highland fling dancer and sword dancer, and son of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Elliott. "Gerry" will compete in the British Columbia Highland games, to be held today at Bowen Island, by the Caledonia Society.

Motorists Warned — Motorists using the Island Highway are advised, in a warning from the British Columbia Department of Public Works that Four-Mile Hill, northeast of Victoria, is under repair, with gangs of men working on the road. Speeding cars at this point narrowly avoided serious accidents, yesterday.

Met Premier—Mayor David Leeming, Victoria, and Mayor Louis D. Taylor, Vancouver, with other civic officials, had an audience, yesterday, with Premier Pattullo in regard to tax arrears in municipal areas and on other matters. No public statement of the objects or result of the conference was made.

Investigation Continues — Fire Marshal J. A. Thomas passed through Victoria yesterday, en route to Vancouver. Investigation into the origin of the fire at the Shawnigan Lake lumber mill is being continued at the scene by W. A. Walker, deputy marshal. No fresh developments have occurred, Mr. Thomas stated.

Road Conditions—Most traveled roads in the British Columbia highway system are in from good condition to fair, with a few thoroughfares temporarily closed for repairs, a monthly report of the British Columbia Department of Public Works states. Island roads are reported in good shape, with some improvements being carried out along the line of the Island Highway.

Plan Dinner—A Trafalgar Day dinner will be held October 20, by the Naval Veterans Branch No. 42, members decided at a meeting last night. Approval was also given reports on expenditures incurred Navy Week. To President Joseph Whitcomb and the various committees a vote of thanks was passed, in appreciation of their work during the recent festivities.

Open Headquarters—To meet the need of the present time, the Victoria and District British-Israel Association has opened headquarters at 645 Pandora Avenue, which is to be run on an entirely voluntary basis, and which is aimed to be of great value to the inquiring public. It includes a small reading-room and library. Books may be obtained, also free literature. Hours are 10 to 4 o'clock; Wednesday to 1 o'clock.

Trades Council Picnic — The annual picnic, held under the auspices of the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council, will take place tomorrow, near Mount Douglas. Arrangements have been made for buses to run from the stage depot in Victoria to the picnic grounds, and return. Transportation is provided free for those who have not their own cars, so that everyone may take advantage of the outing. The buses will leave at 10 a.m. and 1:30 p.m.

Further Adjourned—The hearing of the charges against Lee Kin Mun in the city police court, yesterday, was adjourned until Monday next on the request of W. H. M. Haldane, who appeared for the Crown on the charge laid by the R.C.M.P. that the accused had opium in his possession. The charge of attempted suicide also went over until the opium charge was disposed of. W. C. Moresby, K.C., appeared for the accused, and consented to the postponement.

Louis DeCosta Is Named President Of Dockers' Club

Louis DeCosta, Sr., will guide the destinies of the Esquimalt Football Club during the 1934-35 season, being re-elected president of the club at the annual meeting, held Thursday evening. It marks the fourth successive year DeCosta has headed the Esquimalt club.

J. Jenkins was named vice-president, and J. F. Mesher, well-known soccer official, was returned to the office of secretary-treasurer.

A. Bromley, who has managed the dockers for the past two seasons, was placed in charge of the club for another term. Last year he piloted Esquimalt through to the championship of the Victoria Division of the Pacific Coast League.

M. McDuff, P. Hill, W. Bendall, J. Naylor and J. Quinn were named members of the club executive.

CALGARY MEN TO HAVE ROAD WORK

CALGARY, Aug. 17 (CP).—Two hundred and fifty of Calgary's 2,800 married men on civic relief rolls will be given work on highway construction within the next few days, it was learned today.

The men will be employed on the Lake Louise-Jasper Highway, and will be paid by the Federal Government on an hourly and monthly basis, depending on the work they are assigned to.

Winnipeg Boy Is Drowned in River

WINNIPEG, Aug. 17 (CP).—Harry Clements, sixteen, drowned in the Red River near here while four companions looked on. Unnerved by the tragedy they gave a wrong report of the fatality that sent searchers scouring the bush country for a trace of the boy they reported lost in the woods. Searchers found a pile of clothing near the river and recovered the body.

Shelves of Glass Pretty for Plants

There is nothing prettier than some of the new plate glass shelves which may be placed in a window or pair of windows. Small, colorful house plants lend a touch of beauty to any room. These shelves may be cut to fit, and mounted on brackets so that they are sturdy, dependable little assets.

FUNERAL SERVICE

Funeral service for the late Lieut.-Col. Gordon Baker will take place on Monday at 4 p.m., after which the remains will be forwarded to Vancouver for cremation.

PLANS TO TRY CHANNEL SWIM

Pictou Girl Announces She Will Make Attempt in Coming Year

PICTOU, N.S.—Eva Morrison, star swimmer, says she's through with leading an array of speedy water crawlers to the Boston Light and is going to tackle the English Channel next. Back home in her native town for a holiday, Eva told of her plans to win fresh laurels.

"Jabez Wolf, the trainer of Gertrude Erderle and many other famous swimmers, is completing preparations for my Channel attempt early next year. I intend to try it the hard way — from England to France," she said.

"That route offers many more difficulties," Eva continued. "I shall probably go to England early next year and stay with Mr. Wolf's sister as chaperon until I complete my training."

In answer to a query she said, "No Boston Light swim for me this year. I'm tired of it. I've done it too many times."

ISSUES CHALLENGE

But she had "something better" to offer. Here was her proposition: "I'm going to issue a challenge to any man or woman for a distance swim to Nantasket from the Charlestown Bridge."

She thought she would set August 26 as the date, for, she said, "that will give the light swimmers a two-weeks' rest if they care to race with me."

Eva Morrison has kicked more holes in Boston Harbor than human flesh of either sex, in her comparative long career as a racing swimmer. Now she looks on the treacherous strip of water that separates the British Isles from the European Continent. That same little rough channel has been both a Mecca and a Waterloo to hundreds of long-distance swimmers.

Miss Morrison is now employed in the medical library of the Boston City Hospital, surrounded by massive tomes and moth-eaten pamphlets which she is cataloging.

"You know," she said, "I've learned a great deal by working in that library. I've learned more about muscles and tendons and their general care than I ever thought I would know. It has been a great help to me in keeping myself in shape for competition. I can prepare for a race from a scientific angle, now."

When she was asked if she intended to marry soon, Eva replied with a smile, "I shall have to look over the boys in England first!"

Going Apartments In Nickel Centre

SUDBURY, Ont.—Following the lead of metropolitan centres, Sudbury is tending to become a city of apartment dwellers rather than private home owners. This is the opinion of P. J. O'Gorman, architect, who says the severe Winter climate and irregular topography of the city is discouraging to home owners.

Mr. O'Gorman's contention is borne out in part by the large number of apartment houses in Sudbury, in comparison with other cities of similar size, and by the present keen demand for apartments.

Jacob Factor estimates that the total cost of his efforts to avoid extradition to England amounts to more than $2,000,000. And it must have cost Mr. Insull nearly as much to avoid going back to America. It is seldom that tastes in travel differ quite so violently.

TO REPRESENT CITY HOSPITAL

Jubilee Directors Plan Participation in B.C. Hospitals Convention in October

A meeting of the British Columbia Hospitals Association will be held at the Empress Hotel, from October 3 to 5, inclusive, and at the meeting of the board of directors of Jubilee Hospital, held last evening, the following were named as official representatives from the hospital to attend the sessions: S. J. Drake, president; Dr. T. W. Walker, medical superintendent; Miss Mitchell, director of nursing, and James Forman, one of the directors. The agenda for the sessions has not yet been drawn up, but among the distinguished Canadian medical men who will address the convention will be Dr. Harvey Agnew.

Reports read at last night's meeting showed the following statistics: Number of days' treatment for July, 1934, 6,668; number of days' treatment for July, 1933, 6,403; average number of patients per diem, 1934, 215; for 1933, 207; cost per diem, $2.80; including X-ray and laboratory, $3.14.

NEW MEMBER

Dr. W. E. M. Mitchell was introduced as a new member of the board, being one of the representatives of the Victoria Medical Association.

Standing committees reported having met and elected their chairmen, as follows: Executive committee, Hugh Allan; house committee, Alderman John Worthington; finance committee, H. H. Shandley; training school committee, Alderman P. R. Brown; gardens committee, Charles Williams; building committee, R. J. Jameson; heating and lighting committee, Reeve William Crouch; committee on legislation, F. E. Winslow.

PRESENTS INSTRUMENTS

The board expressed appreciation of the gift from a member of the medical fraternity of a number of very valuable surgical instruments for use in the operating room. Reference was also made to the gratifying result of the collection taken at the out-door concert given at Beacon Hill Park, recently, by the Arion Club, the proceeds amounting to about $100, to be divided between the Women's Auxiliary and the Junior W.A. for their work in connection with the hospital.

Among other donations received during the past month was the sum of $34, presented by the Junior W.A. toward the completion of the sum necessary for the purchase of a sterilizer drum for use in the operating room.

Committees were drawn up, from the personnel of the board, to visit the hospital during the coming months.

Upholds Ban on Sunday Selling

SEATTLE, Aug. 17 (AP). — Superior Judge Robert M. Jones today dissolved an injunction temporarily restraining city police from enforcing the Sunday ban on beer sales. The judge held that the state law of 1909, prohibiting sale of anything except necessities on Sunday, which law is duplicated by a city ordinance, is still valid, and that the city has power to enforce it.

HEINIE MANUSH LOSING GROUND

Heinie Manush, the Big Six batting leader, found his lead clipped to a mere four points yesterday with two leaders pressing him hard for his place. While Manush lost five points by hitting only once in eight attempts, Bill Terry moved up to tie another loser, Charley Gehringer, for second place. Terry hit six times in ten trips to the plate to add five points to his average, while Gehringer dropped three with two hits in six tries. Mel Ott also collected six hits, including his thirty - first and thirty - second homers, going to the plate nine times and improving his average by nine points.

Gyles to Meet McKush in Final

WINNIPEG, Aug. 17 (CP).—The ranks of visiting stars were whittled down today as a hard-fighting Manitoba contingent reached out for premier honors in the semi-finals of the Western hard courts tennis tournament today.

Manitoba ruled the men's open singles, Walter Gyles, Winnipeg veteran, was given a hard battle before eliminating Tom Simpson, Winnipeg, 4-6, 7-5, 6-1. In the final he will meet Eddie McKush, also of Winnipeg, who defeated Graham Bannatyne, Winnipeg, 6-0, 6-1, 6-2.

Manitobans also dominated play in the women's open singles and doubles and mixed doubles. In the women's singles event, Mrs. J. E. Delmage, Dauphin, a former champion, created an upset when she defeated Mrs. Eileen Johnson, of Edmonton, 1933 champion, 6-4, 6-4. Mrs. Delmage meets Mrs. Gordon Pirt in the final.

The small boy was very intently playing with his tin soldiers, a ceremonial parade being in progress, when from the next room came his mother's voice, saying: "Come here a minute, darling." The young commander was as a rule an ideal leader of men, in that he was himself well disciplined, and so his mother was surprised when he failed to obey. "Didn't you hear me, Jack?" she called. "Oh, yes, I heard you the first time," was the aggrieved reply, "but I do wish you wouldn't let my soldiers hear you call me 'darling'."

Heather Day Recalls Departure of Troops

The twentieth anniversary of the leaving of the first contingent for the Great War, on August 26, 1914, will be recalled by the Sir James and Lady Douglas Chapter, by the sale of heather in the streets on Saturday next, Sunday being the actual date.

For nineteen years the chapter, under Mrs. R. B. McMicking, has unfailingly placed before the citizens of Victoria the memory of that day, twenty years ago, when the city was stirred by the tramp of martial feet and seventy men of the 5th Regiment marched through the city and left on the afternoon boat for the front, the first contingent leaving for the Great War.

As the boys made their way through the crowded streets, members of the Lady Douglas Chapter presented each one with a sprig of heather from Mr. George Fraser's famous gardens at Ucluelet, and every year since that date the chapter has commemorated the day, and has sold heather supplied by Mr. Fraser.

Through the sale of heather the chapter has been able to take its full share in the patriotic work of the Imperial Order Daughetrs of Empire, which has benefited the families of the men who went overseas, for the past twenty years.

The convenor is Mrs. T. B. Monk, to whom names of those willing to sell should be sent in as early as possible next week.

Gladys Glad On Beauty

A famous American artist and portrait painter recently created quite an uproar in Hollywood by announcing that he could not find one single perfect beauty in the whole of the movie city. Katharine Hepburn, he pointed out, has too strong and prominent a jaw. Norma Shearer's eyes are too small and close together. Jean Harlow's features are too heavy. All the stars, he insisted, are generally looked upon as being beautiful by the public. Yet not one of them possesses all the ideal beauty points.

Perhaps that's true enough. But most stars know how to conceal their beauty defects, know how to create the illusion of perfect loveliness. Take Loretta Young, for instance. Loretta has very prominent teeth. But she makes this defect negligible by dispensing with the use of lipstick entirely during the daytime. And she makes up her lovely eyes skilfully so that the observer's attention will be called to them and not to her mouth.

No girl who has prominent or protruding teeth should ever make up her mouth brilliantly. For if she does, she will immediately call attention to the imperfections of that feature. The wisest plan for her is to concentrate on perfecting the loveliness of the attractive features she posseses, so that they, rather than her mouth, will be outstanding.

A mouth that is too small for beauty can always be made to appear larger. And a mouth that is too large can be made to look smaller. It's all through the clever use of make-up. But a mouth that is marred by prominent or protruding teeth should have no attention called to it whatsoever. If any lipstick is used, it should be applied with a careful and sparing hand.

Of course, such a mouth shouldn't be neglected entirely. The skin never should be permitted to become dry and scaly. It should, through the proper use of emollients, be kept of a soft, smooth texture. And if the lips are absolutely pale and do not possess the least vestige of natural color, a bit of lipstick may be used. But in this case the coloring should be applied very lightly, and any excess should be carefully wiped away after its application.

Arriving in Victoria Today

LORD Tomlin, Lord of Appeal in Ordinary, who came to Canada from England to attend the annual meeting of the Canadian Bar Association in Toronto, will arrive here this afternoon with Lady Tomlin, and they will be the guests of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. J. W. Fordham Johnson at Government House. Lord Tomlin is shown in the above photograph with Lady Tomlin (left) and Mrs. J. Loch Lang, of Vancouver, horticulturist of the Canadian Pacific Western Hotels, at Chateau Lake Louise. Lord and Lady Tomlin, enthusiastic horticulturists, are receiving some pointers from Mrs. Lang about the Alpine poppies for which the Chateau is famous.

Concert Is Given For Regatta Fund

A most successful concert, arranged by Mrs. G. W. Russell, was held at McMorran's Pavilion on Thursday evening, in aid of the Cordova Bay regatta fund. The hall was filled with an enthusiastic audience, and a programme of great variety was much enjoyed. After the singing of "O Canada" and a "welcome" by a beach baby, Doreen Cooper, the Dutch mill song and dance were given by Yvonne Simpson and Mary Doherty.

Other numbers were: Piano solo, Mildred Williams; recitation, Derry Christie; toe dance, Lois Russell; song, Harry Morrison; song, Flossie Hughes; tap dance, Eugenie Doherty; recitation, Nina Mossman; violin number, Geoffrey Venables; boys' chorus, Eric Hughes, Denis Young, John Bamford, Roy Morley and Billy Brady; tap dance, Yvonne Simpson; novelty number, Ritchie Hughes and Bob Doherty; solo, Mr. John Day; scarf drill, K. MacDonald, Patricia Doherty, Betty Young, Betty Brady, Mildred Williams, Marie Edwards, B. Williams, M. Moresby, Irene Edwards, Enid Richmond, Beryl Hutchinson; piano solo, K. MacDonald; sailor's hornpipe, Marie Edwards; recitation, Pam Christie; tap dance, Mary Doherty; one string violin, "Wong Sing" (Cecil Grey); song, Harry Morrison; song and tap dance, Lois Russell; recitation, Denis Young; acrobatic dance, Eugenie Doherty; recitation, Nina Mossman, and solo, Mr. John Parry.

Miss Mabel Irvine acted as accompanist, and those assisting were Mrs. Venables and Mrs. H. Morrison.

Soroptimists in Favor of Course In "Housewifery"

AT a recent meeting of the Victoria Soroptimist Club, the following resolution was drawn up and endorsed regarding the question of a minimum wage for domestic help: "That the Soroptimist Club is in favor of any move which will tend to raise the standard of the occupation of 'Household Help' to that of other occupations, and that it is of the opinion that this can best be done by instituting a course of training in our schools, along the same lines as the commercial and agricultural courses now in effect, and that such a course should be termed 'housewifery,' and should include a full and complete instruction in all household work. It would further recommend that inquiries be made of the London County Council as to the system in force in its schools in England in this regard, and that a copy of this resolution be sent to the Minister of Education with the request that he give same consideration in any new programme of education which may be contemplated."

Clubs-Societies

Women of the Moose

Victoria Chapter No. 25, Women of the Moose, held a business meeting in St. Ann's Hall, Blanshard Street, on Monday evening, the senior regent, Mrs. Elizabeth Jane, presiding. Mrs. Ethel Humber was welcomed back after her illness, and Mrs. Rose Isaacson reported one other member ill. Membership certificates were presented to Miss Barbara Pollard, Mrs. Jessie Kelly and Mrs. Mamie Carter. A report of the garden party was read and the convener and committee of the beach party thanked for their work. A picnic will be held on August 26 at Ocean Beach and plans were made for the Northwest Moose convention in Port Angeles. Transportation to the beach picnic is in the hands of Mrs. Carrie Drysdale, and an invitation was extended to Maple Leaf Legion No. 53, Lodge 1390, and Junior Legion. Those wishing to attend were asked to meet at the City Hall, at 10:30 a.m., and tea, sugar and milk will be provided. Mrs. Elizabeth Deane, district deputy, grand recorder of British Columbia, will attend the September meeting. In place of a social meeting night, there will be drill team practice. Supper was served at the close of the meeting by Mesdames Panting, Allan and Brown.

Daughters of St. George

Victoria Lodge No. 83, Daughters of St. George, met on Wednesday evening in the S.O.E. Hall, the worthy president, Mrs. A. Harris, in the chair. Several members from Princess Patricia Lodge were welcomed, and two new members received into the order. A committee was appointed to make arrangements for the forthcoming joint banquet on September 6 in the K. of C. Hall, in honor of Mrs. Dawn Webster, supreme president. On behalf of the lodge, the president presented W.P.P. Mrs. A. Gurney with a past president's badge. The captain of the guard, Mrs. E. Skelland, requested that all members of the drill team, officers and members, be present at the hall on Wednesday next, at 7:30 p.m., for drill practice. After the business session, refreshments were served by Mesdames E. Rowebottom, A. Adams and A. McKean.

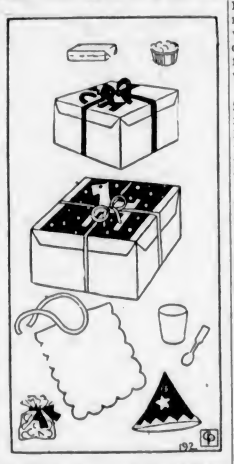

T.V.A. Auxiliary

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Tubercular Veterans' Post No. 18, will hold a "Court Whist" party at the home of Mrs. Standerwick, 1531 Elford Street, on Wednesday at 8 o'clock, in aid of funds for the Tubercular Veterans' Clubroom on Blanshard Street. Anyone interested in the T.V.A. are welcome. There will be good prizes. Play will start at 8 o'clock sharp. Reservations may be made by telephoning Garden 7579.

Save the Pieces

By HANNAH

Mothers who must give birthday parties in the Summer for children under ten, will be glad to know of some way to keep the party together in the big outdoors. The confines of the house in the Winter make indoor games fun, and one usually can keep even the youngest children busy until ice cream time. Summer is different, however, and some way must be found to keep the youngsters out of doors, and at the same time in a group.

The Summer party need not be as formal as the Winter one, and a few children may be invited over for a picnic supper in the backyard for the birthday celebration. Just be sure there is a birthday cake with candles and ice cream.

It is smart to have individual lunches done up in individual boxes as illustrated. At the top is a box packed for older children. It has initials of the guest pasted on the cover, and is tied with paper ribbon. In it are the sandwiches, little cup of salad, drinking cup, paper spoon and whatever other food is to be served. It also carries the bag of candy or nuts tied up in colored cellophane, and a paper hat for a favor.

Boxes for the smaller children have some bright wallpaper pasted on the cover of the ordinary box, and some cunning animal placed over that. Then each child is given a similar animal, and he must match his animal to one on a box to find his right lunch. A paper bib, cut in scallops with tape stitched at the top is folded up inside the youngster's box to keep his or her party frock clean.

It is a good idea to invite the children to come at lunch or dinner time, so they can eat as soon as they arrive, for they get acquainted so much quicker over milk cups. A few games may be played after lunch. Some story telling and guessing games are good to keep them quiet on the hotter days.

Of sixteen thousand replies received to a questionnaire, one-third supported the idea of a general union of the churches in the United States. One-third wanted a Federal union analogous to that of the states of the American Republic, and one-third preferred continuation of the present system of separate denominations. The questionnaire was sent out by the Institute of Social and Religious Research of New York.

Lowly Kippers Defeat Caviar In Food Value

LONDON (CP). — A twopenny kipper has infinitely more food value than two shillings worth of caviar. Expensive foods more frequently make for fatness than fitness.

These are two points made by Sir Charles Higham, who has recently been collecting information as to how price relates to the nutritive value of foods. "My conclusion," said Sir Charles in an interview, "is that bread—the cheapest of all foods—heads the list of nutritive foods.

"Many well-meaning people do not realize this fact. The unemployed are often fed on scups, but, as Dr. Hare, of Lincoln, pointed out just recently, thin soup has no nutritive value at all, and even a plateful of 'thick, nourishing soup,' made from peas or potatoes, is only equivalent to half a slice of bread."

Sir Charles Higham's conclusion is that price bears no relation to food value. He quoted Professor Mottram, the authority on dietetics, who says: "It is the demands of the palate which cost most—not those of the body's requirements.

"Suppose, for example, we wish to buy fuel for the body—we may buy it as bread at three cents per 1,000 calories, or as an American breakfast cereal at about sixteen cents per 1,000. The effect as regards warming the body and supplying building materials is almost certainly the same."

WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

VICTORIA

The monthly meeting of the Victoria Women's Institute was held in the hall, 564 Yates Street, yesterday afternoon. Mrs. W. Peden was in the chair. Considerable business was transacted, and plans were discussed for the entertainment of delegates to the South Vancouver Island district convention. A silver tea will be held at the home of Mrs. A. R. Harness, 1777 Hampshire Road, on August 30. Arrangements were made for exhibits for the Provincial Exhibition, the following conveners to be in charge: Lunch room, Mrs. L. Schmelz; flowers, Mrs. G. Brown; knitting, Mrs. F. Urquhart; embroidery, Mrs. B. Reid, and handcraft, Mrs. J. L. White. Mrs. Peden was appointed convener of the Solarium tag day, to be sponsored by the institute. An intensive programme is being arranged for the coming season, and classes will include home nursing, physical culture, sewing, and various handcrafts. Information regarding these classes and institute work will be cheerfully given and inquiries are invited.

Weddings

CROWE—BROOKS

The marriage was solemnized quietly on Monday at the Metropolitan United Church, Rev. J. H. A. Warr officiating, when Violet, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Brooks, 1552 Burton Avenue, became the bride of Mr. James Crowe, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Crowe, of Gosworth Road. The bride wore a becoming blue swagger suit, with gray accessories and hat to match, and a corsage bouquet of gardenias, roses, sweet peas and fern. She was given in marriage by her father and was attended by her sister, Miss H. Brooks, Mr. Jack Hearn acting as groomsman. Luncheon was served at the bride's home, and after a honeymoon Up-Island, Mr. and Mrs. Crowe will live in Victoria.

"I see in the Weekly Banner of Spruceville, that Lem Higgins has 'fallen asleep'."

"Dead, eh?"

"Yes."

"Well, the only difference between Lem as he is now and as he was for twenty years, is that he doesn't snore any more."

PARIS STYLES

By MARY KNIGHT
United Press Staff Correspondent.

PARIS—The first prize in the "prettiest hat contest," recently held during "Elegance Week" in Vichy went to the Belgian beauty Madame Joris de Maffezzoni, who was wearing a handsome large black velvet beret designed by the Parisian modist Leon.

That may, or may not, tip you as to the general trend for the coming Winter. But what is a trend? And who can tell it five minutes away? As soon as we get in what we think is a position to use the word with some degree of truth, the trend itself is gone and something different is in its wake.

French clothes being designed now have less and less the "taint" of America upon them—that is, they are being created more and more for French people—which is, after all, what brought them to fame in the first place. It was in the boom days when money poured into Paris that the French forgot all about their native genius and went to catering to what the tourists thought they wanted. And, like everything else, when they got it they knew at once it wasn't what they wanted.

TODAY'S FASHION TIP

Linen Suit Cool and Natty for Hot Days

By LISBETH

Most of us are engaged now in a strenuous effort to look trim and neat, and also to feel and look cool. It's the perennial Summer marathon.

The printed silk jacket frock is one answer to this problem; the cotton frock is another; and the linen frock or suit is a third.

Of course if you having nothing to do but play you can practically discard everything but a bathing suit or one of those delightfully informal play suits that feature shorts, but if you're the average matron with a home and family to provide for, or a "poor wolking goil," you cannot play around, as you would like, but must be trimly dressed for shopping or business.

Three costumes here are the answer to mliady's prayer for Summer coolness.

At the left we have a tailored suit of Irish linen in navy blue. It is cut on classical lines with wide lapels and a straight skirt. The jacket is double-breasted, and has two patch pockets.

Blue and white scarf, navy off-the-face hat with white trim, white gloves, blue shoes and white bag with a touch of blue, are the correct accompaniments.

Another double-breasted suit you see in the centre. Tyrolean horn buttons are very new and smart and they trim the jacket of this clever suit. With it is worn a checked linen scarf. Inverted box pleats give fullness to the skirt and take care of the liberty of the wearer, without detracting from the trim straight line.

Less formal is the suit shown at the right. The collarless jacket has four patch pockets, and three-quarters-length sleeves. The skirt is trim and straight, yet cut with plenty of room. The printed lawn blouse, with its round neck and perky bow finishes this chic ensemble.

Birthday Party

Mrs. George T. Read, of Shanghai, who is spending the Summer months in Victoria, entertained yesterday afternoon at her home in Uplands Lodge at a delightful party, the occasion being the first birthday of her small son, Tony. The rooms were prettily arranged with vases of mauve chrysanthemums, marigolds and rose dahlias, and the tea table was centred with a birthday cake decorated in pink and white, and lighted by one pink candle. The guests were: Mrs. I. G. Marshall, Mrs. J. H. Delves, Mrs. Charles H. Duff (Shanghai), Mrs. Gordon B. Paterson, Mrs. H. V. Bleackley (Tokio), Misses Atkins, Josephine Delves, and Rhoda Goward, and Richard and Jeannete Paterson, Dickie and Betty Rennison, Ann Bleackley, and Anita Duff.

Birthday Party

Mrs. Joseph Wright, of 2709 Fifth Street, and Mrs. Sidney Thomas, gave a surprise party yesterday afternoon in honor of their niece, Mavis Barker, who was celebrating her twelfth birthday. The tea table was prettily arranged in a color scheme of yellow, blue and white, and the three-tier birthday cake held the place of honor, a bowl of nasturtiums at either side. Later the little guests were taken to the theatre, and included among them were Thelma and Lorna Murgatroyd, Nadine and Jill Jones, Bernice Lockwood, Florence Wilson, Joan and Flossie Ray, Beryl Chesworth and Bryan Wright.

Cheese Poached Eggs Interesting

Eggs poached with cheese is a new creation invented by someone who ked interesting flavor combinations, yet had an eye for color and talent for economy. To each two cups of medium cream sauce needed, add a small portion of cheese and pour over poached eggs that have been placed in a bed of cooked, seasoned spinach.

Colored Lingerie Should Be Tinted

The lingerie must be tinted occasionally to preserve the dainty appearance. A faded blue garment will tint a delicate orchid with the aid of pink dye. A pale yellow will shade into a delicate green if dipped in blue dye and a pink dye will shade the yellow into a lovely melon or shell pink. Use small quantities of dye for these pastel shades.

A co-operative enterprise in which the Christian churches of Canada participate, the Canadian School of Missions, situated in Toronto, recently closed its thirteenth year. The aggregate registration of 143 was made up of ninety missionaries, thirty candidates for the mission field, and twenty-three visitors. Class work and personal coaching were provided in as many as twenty-two subjects, forty instructors giving their services. The breadth of the missionary activity is shown in the fact that instruction was given in book publishing, analytical plane geometry and oxy-acetylene welding. Dr. Lowell Murray is the director of the school.

May Settle in Victoria After Wide Traveling

A world traveler since 1914, when he retired from the oil business in Calgary, J. Dumma, whose postal address is Edinburgh, Scotland, arrived in Victoria, yesterday, to survey Lower Vancouver Island, with the intention of taking up his permanent residence here. Mr. Dumma, who is accompanied by his wife, is now stopping at the Empress Hotel.

An ardent fisherman, Mr. Dumma has often visited Vancouver Island, and was here two years ago. He expects to engage in fishing during the next two weeks, he said last night.

When Mr. Dumma left Scotland a few months ago, he found conditions improving. Mr. and Mrs. Dumma sailed for New York, and later went to Los Angeles, where they visited for some weeks. Comparing conditions in his native country and the United States, Mr. Dumma said Scotland was in far better circumstances with a brighter future ahead.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

By Ely Culbertson

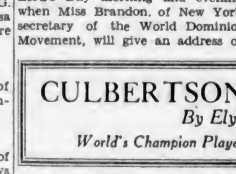

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

AN OVERSUPPLY OF ACES

In the play of any bridge hand the combined trick-taking resources of both sides must amount to exactly thirteen tricks—never more. But the possible supply of tricks after each deal is usually far in excess of the required thirteen. If all the suit lengths in the four hands were developed to their maximum trick - producing capacity, there would be many more than thirteen potential winners available, and since only the first thirteen can be counted, the rest must be sacrificed. Consider that if each player held a complete suit, one thirteen spades, another thirteen hearts, etc.—which various romanticists and practical jokers cause to occur practically every day by stacking the cards—each player at the table would hold thirteen potential trick winners, but only he who obtained the final contract would actually obtain any of those little packets of four cards each to put in front of him. This almost impossible case has its counterpart, though in less degree, every day.

Sometimes even aces at no trump must be sacrificed to the pressure of time, and in one remarkable hand all four aces remained to the very last trick, at which time they all fell together—the ace which led winning the trick and the other three, despite their exalted rank, being of no more value than though they had been humble deuces.

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

South dealt and bid one club After West passed, North bid one diamond, East passed and South bid one no trump. North raised to two no trump and South carried the bidding to three no rtump, which was the final contract.

West opened the five of hearts, which East won with the king, returning the heart jack. South covered with the queen, but West was now in a peculiar predicament; if South had the heart ten he had a stopper, and even if East held the heart ten and South had no stopper, his suit would be blocked and West's small hearts could never be used. West therefore decided to duck and hope that East held the heart ten, which he could overtake on the next lead and run the entire suit. South therefore held the trick and led the diamond jack, which he finessed to East's king.

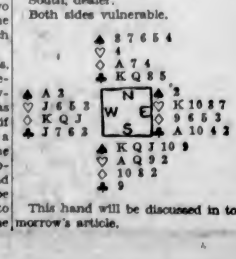

Upon winning the diamond king, East saw that he must try desperately to put the lead into West's hand so that the balance of the heart suit could be realized. His best chance seemed to be to hope that South held the spade king but not the queen, and that if he (East) led a small spade South would guess wrong and finesse to dummy's jack. East therefore led the spade four, which South's king won.

At this point South could have claimed the balance of the tricks, but his sense of the esthetic was too great and he saw the opportunity for a most amusing climax. South therefore played a small club and took tricks with dummy's king and queen. He then led the four of diamonds from dummy, winning with his diamond nine, and cashed the jack and ten of clubs, on which he discarded the last two spades from dummy. Dummy's hand now consisted of nothing but solid diamonds. South's third diamond was led and dummy won with the ten, then ran off the queen and five. On the thirteenth trick the dummy had remaining the ace of diamonds. East had saved the ace of spades. South had the ace of clubs, and West had retained the ace of hearts, the only valuable card in his hand. When North's diamond ace was led, the four aces fell, one by one, around the table, constituting probably the most remarkable trick in all the history of bridge.

Granted that North and South held one trick too many, so that the ultimate result of the hand in tricks won would have been apparent almost to a blind man, there can be no better illustration of how easily possible it is that high cards which would win a trick, could they but be led, can be sacrificed to the factor of time and fall valueless on someone else's winning lead.

Santa Paula Brought In Large Number of Tourists From South

President Jefferson Sailing for Orient Ports This Evening—Ruth Alexander Southbound Tomorrow—Dorothy Alexander Chartered

With a large passenger list, the Grace Line Ss. Santa Paula, Captain Curt Zastrow, arrived alongside Rithet Piers shortly after 9 o'clock yesterday morning, continuing to Seattle at 11:30 o'clock. Quite a number of tourists left the ship here, many of them intending to spend some time on Vancouver Island before returning South. Captain Zastrow reported a lot of fog in the Strait and below Tatoosh, and had to stop his ship several times and proceed slowly while in the presence of other ships. The Santa Paula will be here again tomorrow afternoon on the way to New York and way ports. She will be full up when she leaves here.

Sailing for the Philippine Islands by way of Japan and China ports, the American Mail Line Ss. President Jackson will call here this afternoon to embark passengers, take on mails and some cargo. She is due to arrive at Rithet Piers at 4 o'clock and to sail for Yokohama, her first port of call in the Orient, at 6 o'clock.

Bound for San Francisco and Wilmington, the Pacific Steamship Lines Ss. Ruth Alexander is due to arrive alongside Rithet Piers at 7 o'clock tomorrow morning. The Ruth will embark Island and Mainland passengers for California, and will leave here at 9 o'clock. All her passenger accommodation has been taken for the voyage.

LINER DELAYED

Late in leaving Seattle, it was 11:30 o'clock last night when the Ss. Haleakala, of the Alaska Steamship Company, tied up at Rithet Piers on her way to Alaska. The Haleakala had many tourists aboard making the round trip North. The Haleakala cleared for Ketchikan, her first port of call in Alaska, early this morning.

For seasonal overhaul and painting, the Canadian Pacific liner Ss. Empress of Japan is now in the Government Drydock at Esquimalt. The liner was floated into the dock yesterday and will be ready to come out this afternoon. Yarrows, Limited, has a large crew of men engaged, and the ship will be floated out again this afternoon.

The Ss. Dorothy Alexander, Pacific Steamship Lines, and well-known at this port, has been chartered by the Alaska Steamship Company for a round trip voyage to Southeastern Alaska points. The ship will leave Seattle, August 25, and will bring back cannery workers, fishermen and others who spend the Winter in the Puget Sound port.

Manitobans Left On Special Trip To Northern Port

WINNIPEG, Aug. 17.—Carrying more than one hundred and sixty passengers, including Hon. John Bracken, Premier of Manitoba, many of the Provincial Cabinet and Members of Parliament, and Col. Ralph Webb, Mayor of Winnipeg, a special train left the Canadian National depot this morning en route to Churchill, Manitoba's seaport on Hudson Bay. This "goodwill tour" of Manitoba's business men and business women will fit in nicely with the recent arrival at Churchill of several ships from Old Country ports, bringing freight with them and taking back grain.

From this morning until Thursday afternoon, August 23, this special train will be the home of the goodwill party. Stops will be made en route at Dauphin, The Pas and the Flin Flon mining area.

Fair Skippers To Pilot Boats In Races Today

TODAY is "Ladies' Day" at the Royal Victoria Yacht Club. Fair skippers will sail both star and dinghy class craft in races over the Cadboro Bay course, and will undoubtedly be able to demonstrate some of the fine points of sailing for the benefit of the amateur sailormen who will be on hand to watch the sport. The race will start at 3 o'clock.

MANY ELECTRIC CABS ORDERED

Pennsylvania Railroad Will Build 101 Locomotives of New Type

Orders have just been placed by the Pennsylvania Railroad for twenty-eight electric passenger locomotives to cost over $6,000,000.

The new engines will be of the same general type as those now in regular passenger service between New York, Philadelphia, Wilmington and Paoli. The cab, however, has been redesigned, giving the engine more grace and symmetry of line.

Each end of the new locomotive will slope gently inward from the floor to the cab roof, with rounded shoulders running toward the central operating compartment. Location of the engineman's control position in the centre instead of at the ends of the cab will make possible a locomotive generally more attractive and pleasing to the eye.

EMPLOYMENT PROJECT

The engines will be part of the fleet of 101 new electric locomotives with which the railroad will inaugurate through electric service for both passenger and freight trains between New York and Washington early next year. Their construction is included in the road's huge improvement and employment project, financed by P.W.A., which involves not only roadway electrification work between New York and Washington and the new electric locomotive programme, but also the building of 7,000 freight cars at the Pennsylvania's shops.

WORK DIVIDED

The Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company will build twelve of the new electrics; the General Electric Company, five, and the railroad's Altoona works will assemble the other eleven, the propulsion equipment for which will be supplied by the electrical companies. Construction of these twenty-eight engines will provide 2,500,000 man-hours of work in the shops of the electrical companies and the railroad, in addition to increasing employment in the basic industries supplying materials and parts.

Commodore of Grace Fleet

Captain Curt Zastrow, who brought the Santa Paula north from San Francisco, relieving the regular skipper, Captain A. C. Paulsen, was appointed several months ago to his present position. He says "it's as good as being an admiral." All he has to do is look after the fleet, and make the round-trip between San Francisco, Victoria and Seattle. In future, he said, part of his duties is to take the "stagger" trip, giving the regular skipper a "few days off."

VENTURA WILL BE BROKEN UP

Old Matson-Oceanic Liner Now Crossing Pacific to Japan

The famous old Matson-Oceanic liner Ss. Ventura sailed away from San Francisco on July 30, her name changed to Ventura Maru, manned by a Japanese crew, and bound for Japan to be scrapped for old metal, this latter, presumably, to be turned into a Japanese merchant ship, or maybe a man-of-war; who can tell?

Anyway, it was perhaps only a few of those who watched the old ship steam through the Golden Gate who recalled the fact that among the adventures this sturdy craft had while plying between this port and Australia—a trade in which she, together with her sister ships, the Sierra and Sonoma, had operated for many years—was the hero of one of the most thrilling rescues at sea ever recorded.

RECEIVES SOS.

One day, some years ago, as the Ventura was discharging cargo at Pago Pago, Samoa, she received an SOS. from the steamer Tahiti, in the steamer lane from San Francisco to Australia through Papeete, Tahiti. The Tahiti's tail shaft had broken and gone through the side of the ship, causing a hole which pumps were powerless to compete with. The Ventura immediately put to sea and, under forced draft, made for the position reported by the Tahiti.

When the Ventura's smoke was seen on the horizon, the passengers and crew of the Tahiti took to their boats, and so narrow was the margin of time, the Tahiti sank while the Ventura was still by her. Not a soul was lost or injured.

Captain Meyer then returned to Pago Pago for his passengers, and his subsequent arrival in San Francisco with the survivors was the occasion of one of the greatest receptions ever given a heroic skipper in the history of coast ports.—Commercial News.

Remains of Locally Built Steamer Were Cremated Last Night

Fitting Climax to Long and Useful Career Provided for Former B.C. Coast Service Ship Princess Royal

There's not much left of the old Ss. Princess Royal, this morning. The once-popular ship was given a bath of oil, yesterday afternoon, and the torch was applied to her shell early last evening as she lay broadside to the beach between Esquimalt Lagoon and Albert Head. It was a fitting finish for the old veteran, although there was no sentiment connected with the burning.

The Princess Royal was built by local shipwrights in the Bullen shipyard (now Yarrows, Limited), and launched in 1907. She was specially built for certain traffic and operated in her time on all routes covered by ships of the B.C. Coast Service fleet, with the possible exception of the "Triangle" run, and many of the deck and engine-room officers now aboard the more commodious ships running on the British Columbia coast served aboard her.

During her lifetime she proved a useful unit, and did her share in building up the prestige of the coast service of Canadian Pacific Steamships, and having lived up to the expectations of her designers and owners, it was fitting, no matter what the objective of her purchasers, that she should be cremated. With her ashes scattered over a moving tide, she had a far more appropriate finish for a good ship than to lie rotting in some stagnant backwater for years on end.

WELL FASTENED

Fortunately for the old ship, as well as for those who have been associated with her in various capacities and possess a certain sentimental regard for such matters, there was nothing skimped in her construction. She was stoutly built and well put together, with iron and brass fastenings, metals which are now in great demand, otherwise the ship's final fate would still have to be written.

Several days ago, the Princess Royal was towed out to Royal Bay and beached between the Producers and the Pioneer sand and gravel properties, by the Capital Iron & Metals, Limited, who purchased the hull from the Pacific Salvage Company. All the brass work that could be recovered was then removed, as well as the bronze propeller. The only way to secure the iron material then was to burn the remains. Saturated with oil, the burning hull made a spectacular fire after darkness fell. It was still burning at a late hour last night.

What Today Means

LEO

If August 18 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:45 a.m. to 12:45 p.m., from 3:45 to 5:45 p.m. and from 7:45 to 9:45 p.m. The danger periods are from 6:45 to 8:45 a.m., from 1:45 to 3:45 p.m. and from 10:45 p.m. until midnight.

Simply because August 18 is Saturday and a holiday spirit is rife, is no justification for tasks to be neglected, and complications may follow if they are. A happy-go-lucky type of individual may try to persuade you to go on a wild goose chase, so it might be advisable in accepting any invitation to ascertain if plans of a definite nature have been already made and exact destination decided upon. Water sports and travel thereon both require that caution be exercised, for any form of reckless undertaking or horseplay may cause regret. A lack of punctuality in keeping an appointment might cause a quarrel, so be careful this does not occur. Conventionality requires careful attention be given to attire, and carelessness in this might lead to an embarrassing rebuke by some one whose good opinion is valued. Cupid's tow line will bring many a lover's slip-of-hopes into safe harborage before the day is over, providing they are steered through smooth channels, and the turbulent waters of discord are avoided.

If a woman, and August 18 is your natal day, unless you differ greatly from most every one else born on this date, you are inclined to be overcautious. If you are wise you will not let fear of this, that, or the other thing hamper your judgment, when instinctively you feel a certain course of action is correct. Educational work should prove a lucrative field for you. Statistical or other forms of compilation of data offer excellent occupational opportunities for one of your nature. You should make a man an excellent wife, and get a great deal of happiness through matrimony.

The child born on August 18 may, as it grows up, be rather precocious. Be watchful this child does not become satisfied with only a smattering of knowledge on many topics and a thorough familiarity with but few.

If a man, and August 18 is your birthday, you are probably possessed of a far more studious nature than your friends give you credit for having, as you are not inclined to boast. Having a great deal of determination, you will never be satisfied until you reach the goal you are striving for. Perseverance will make this possible. A home and wife is essential for your complete contentment.

Churches and Their World-Wide Work

DR. C. THORNTON IS EVANGELIST

Noted Bible Lecturer to Hold Gospel Services at Missionary Alliance

Dr. Charles L. Thornton, of Wichita, Kansas, who conducted a prophetical Bible conference, July 1 to 15, in the Central Baptist Church here, will tomorrow begin an evangelistic campaign in the Christian Missionary Alliance Church, Lower Yates Street, of which Rev. Daniel Walker is pastor.

The first message will be given at 3 o'clock Sunday, on the subject: "Revival or Revolution: Which?" He will speak again at 7:30 on "Apostasy, Lawlessness and the Mystery of Iniquity."

Dr. Thornton has just returned from Vancouver, where he has been speaking for the last three weeks in a big tent at the corner of Broadway and Alder Streets. Large crowds attended these meetings and large numbers were brought to Christ in conversion. Many nights more than one thousand persons crowded the tent.

The week-night meetings, at which Ernest Woolnough will be the soloist, are as follows:

Monday, August 20, "Satan, His Origin. When Did He Become God of This Age? Was He Created a Devil?"

Tuesday, August 21, "Hell, Where Is It, and Who Will Be There?"

Wednesday, August 22, "The Mystery of the Tares and the Wheat."

Thursday, August 23, "Watchman, What of the Night?"

Friday, August 24, "The Baptism of the Holy Spirit, and the Unpardonable Sin."

About £60,000 has been raised towards the purchase price of £100,000 for the Codex Sinaiticus, the Greek manuscript of the New Testament that was bought from the Soviet Government.

B.C. Archbishop Is Acting-Primate

MOST REV. A. U. de PENCIER, D.D.

Archbishop of New Westminster and Metropolitan of the Ecclesiastical Province of British Columbia, will serve as Acting-Primate of the Church of England in Canada, succeeding the late Archbishop Worrell, until the General Synod meeting in Montreal next month.

PROFITEERING TO BE SERMON THEME

Rev. H. P. S. Luttrell Will Present Truth of Ancient Preacher at St. Andrew's Service

At St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church tomorrow, the minister, Rev. H. P. S. Luttrell, B.A., will preach both morning and evening. The morning subject will be "The Prophet and the Profiteer," Amos viii, 4-8, and in the evening the theme "The Timely and the Timeless" will be drawn from II Cor. iv, 18.

In the morning the soloist will be Mrs. Thomas Hardy, who will sing "The Stranger of Galilee," a composition of Morris. The choir will sing Edwyn Clare's anthem, "Peace I Leave With You," with solo by William Draper. In the evening Miss Jean McGowan, as soloist, will sing "The Beautiful Land of Prayer," by Fillmore. The evening anthem will be "God Is Love," by Ernest Nicol.

CITY MINISTER TO BE SPEAKER

Rev. H. Armitage to Preach at Metropolitan — Morning, Rev. J. H. A. Warr

Rev. H. J. Armitage, of St. Aidan's Church, will be the guest preacher at Metropolitan United Church on Sunday evening. Mr. Armitage has chosen for his subject "The Magnificence of Man." The choir, under the direction of Frank Tupman, will sing the anthem "The Lord Is My Shepherd" (Macfarren), and Miss Elsa Ridgway, formerly soloist of Metropolitan Church, Edmonton, will sing as a solo "Ave Maria" (Luzzi).

The morning service will be conducted by Rev. J. Harwood A. Warr. The sermon theme will be entitled "Talking to Yourself." The choir will sing the anthem "God So Loved the World" (Stainer), and Miss Janet Hay will sing Fairlee's composition "Awake, Psaltery and Harp."

"Soul" to Be Lesson On Sunday

"Soul" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 19. The golden text is: "Cause me to hear Thy lovingkindness in the morning; for in Thee do I trust: cause me to know the way wherein I should walk; for I lift up my soul unto Thee" (Psalms cxliii, 8).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "The Lord will command His lovingkindness in the daytime, and in the night His song shall be with me, and my prayer unto the God of my life" (Psalms xlii, 8).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "When understanding changes the standpoints of life and intelligence from a material to a spiritual basis, we shall gain the reality of Life, the control of Soul over sense, and we shall perceive Christianity, or Truth, in its divine Principle" (p. 322).

ALBERTA MAN TO LEAD CONFERENCE

Principal L. E. Maxwell Will Give Series of Bible Addresses at Central Baptist Church

Principal L. E. Maxwell, of the Prairie Bible Institute, Three Hills, Alberta, will commence a Bible conference tomorrow in the Central Baptist Church, speaking at the morning service at 11 o'clock and the evening service at 7:30. Mr. Maxwell stresses the fact that this is to be a conference for definite Bible reading.

The visiting divine will also speak on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday each evening at 8 o'clock. The students who have been to the Prairie Bible Institute speak highly of Mr. Maxwell and urge all young people to take this opportunity of hearing him give some of his powerful messages. All prospective students and friends are cordially invited.

'FINEST PLACE IN WORLD' IS TOPIC

Dr. Thompson Promises Helpful Services at City Temple—Evening, "Value of Ordinary Man."

Two services of special helpfulness are promised at the City Temple, 842 North Park Street, tomorrow. The morning sermon will deal with "The Finest Place in the World." In the evening Dr. Thompson will preach on "The Value of the Ordinary man."

The morning anthem will be "God so Loved the World" (J. Goss), and in the evening the choir will sing "Arise, Shine, for Thy Light Is Come" (C. J. Elvey).

DR. E. CRUMMY TO GIVE SERMON

Local Ministers Will Take Fairfield Work—Morning Preacher Is Rev. J. Robson

On Sunday morning, at 11 o'clock, Rev. John Robson will preach at Fairfield Church on "The Requirement of Christ." A Jackman will sing "A Dream of Paradise" (Hamilton Gray), and a quartette, "Incline Thine Ear" (Himmel), will be rendered by Miss G. Lang, Mrs. L. Barlow, L. Abbott and A. Jackman.

At 7:30 o'clock Dr. Ebor Crummy will be the guest preacher. Miss G. Lang will sing "A Stranger of Galilee" (Morris), and there will be a quartette, "I've Found a Friend" (Stebbins), by Miss G. Lang, Mrs. L. Barlow, L. Abbott and A. Lantrow.

Presbytery Will Convene Here on Tuesday, Aug. 28

CALLED earlier on account of the biennial meeting of the General Council on September 12, the Victoria Presbytery of the United Church of Canada will convene on Tuesday, August 28, at 9 o'clock, in First United Church. The Presbytery, whose members consist of the ministers, both active and retired, and a corresponding number of laymen, will review the work of the churches within its bounds and among other business will elect officers for the coming year. The present president is Rev. E. B. Arrol, B.A., and Rev. Thomas Keyworth, of Sidney, is secretary. Ministers who have taken duty in the Presbytery since its last meeting include the following: Revs. Bryce H. Wallace, Courtenay; T. C. Colwell, Cowichan Lake; A. O. Patterson, Union Bay; Chow Ling, Victoria, and G. R. B. Kinney, West Coast.

TO PREACH ON SOCIAL ORDER

Dean Quainton to Discuss Communism—Rev. T. R. Lancaster Morning

Holy Communion will be celebrated in Christ Church Cathedral on Sunday at 6, 8 and 12:15 o'clock. The preacher at the morning service will be Rev. T. R. Lancaster.

At 3 o'clock, in the grounds on the south side of the Cathedral, an open-air evangelistic meeting will be held under the auspices of the Oxford Group Movement. The Dean will preside over this gathering, and among the speakers will be Miss Katherine Goward, Miss Joy Phillips, William McPhee and W. F. Howell. Dean Quainton will give an account of the recently held house party at Mount Rainier. Tourists will be made especially welcome at this meeting.

Dean Quainton will preach at the evening service on "What Can I Do to Bring In a More Christian Social and Economic Order?" Is Communism the only solution, or do the words of Nicolai Berdiaeff, late Professor of Philosophy of Moscow University, under the Soviets, give the right solution: "Communism intends, by means of the compulsory, external organization of society, to produce a juster social order, which is the good in Communism; but in endeavoring to attain a brotherhood by this external compulsion, Communism enters an evil path leading it straight to tyranny. A new social order must be created, one which eliminates man's oppression of man; but it is a spiritual task, a Christian task."

Citadel Band to Render Music at Aged Men's Home

Adjutant and Mrs. Ede, commanding officers, will lead the meetings tomorrow at the Salvation Army Citadel, Broad Street. Visiting officers and comrades will also take part. The Citadel Band, under the leadership of Bandmaster William Radcliffe, will play at the Aged Men's Home from 2:30 to 3:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

DR. W. H. VANCE TO SPEAK HERE

Anglican College Principal Will Preach at St. John's Morning Prayer

REV. W. H. VANCE, D.D.

Rev. W. H. Vance, D.D., principal of the Anglican Theological College of British Columbia, Vancouver, who is visiting in Victoria, will preach at St. John's Church on Sunday at the 11 o'clock service.

There will be Holy Communion at 8 o'clock, Morning Prayer and sermon at 11, and Evensong and sermon at 7:30.

There will be an organ recital by G. Jennings Burnett before the evening service, commencing at 7:10 o'clock, and the rector, Rev. Canon F. A. P. Chadwick, will officiate at the service.

Programme Of Nazism Is Subject

An address on "The German Election and Its Probable Menace to European Peace: The Nazi Programme," will be given by E. E. Richards, under the auspices of the British-Israel World Federation, on Monday, at 8 o'clock, in the Campbell Building, Douglas Street.

The address will review the current events in Europe in the light of prophecy and the time measures of the Great Pyramid. Wickham Steed's prediction of the recent Nazi putsch, the murder of Dr. Dollfuss, and Dr. Goebbel's Hamburg declaration of German policy will be features of the address.

MAINLAND MAN TO PREACH SUNDAY

Rev. J. P. Gordon Will Speak at First Baptist Church—"Worldly Wise," Morning Subject

The guest preacher at the First Baptist Church on Sunday will be Rev. J. P. Gordon, B.A., B.Th., of Fairview Baptist Church, Vancouver. Mr. Gordon is a speaker with considerable ability, and is well known as a profound student of many religious questions vitally important at the present time. He is an enthusiastic Oxford Grouper and has been for some time actively engaged in the work in Vancouver. He has expressed a desire to meet as many as possible of those who are definitely interested in this movement in the city.

At the morning service Mr. Gordon will speak on "The Worldly Wise," and the title of his evening sermon will be "The Data of Experience," a discussion of a method and mode of Christian living in days like these and in the future.

Special music for the day will be a contralto solo by Miss H. Barr at the morning service, and a duet in the evening by Stanley Honeychurch and James Dinsmore. The proposed Ladies' Second Mile Club picnic to Brentwood has been cancelled.

Messages to Be Given Sunday by Rev. F. Frampton

At the First Spiritualist Church, S.O.E. Hall, Broad Street, there will be an afternoon public circle at 3 o'clock. At the evening service the pastor, Rev. Flora Frampton, will take for her subject, "They Came to Elim." The soloist will be Mrs. C. P. Milne. There will be messages by flowers at this service.

The Monday evening public message circle will be held in Room 5, S.O.E. Hall, at 7:45 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Flora Frampton. The Thursday evening "Open Door" circle will meet in Room 5 at 7:45 p.m., with Miss Pearson in charge.

Dr. J. H. Ingram, a missionary of the American Board of Peiping, was shot to death by midnight robbers on June 15; at Fukien, a Roman Catholic priest was murdered by Communists after the station had been looted, and Rev. Howard A. Smith, of the Christian and Missionary Alliance at Pengshui, Swechwan, was carried off by bandits on May 8 and had not been heard of on July 1.

Treasure and Tongue Will Be Discussed

Rev. Mary Deering, leader of the Home of Truth of Alameda, California, will speak at Victoria Truth Centre on Sunday. At 11 o'clock her topic will be "Treasures" and at 7:30 "A Wholesome Tongue."

Mrs. Deering is a clear, forceful speaker, and those who are availing themselves of this opportunity to hear her are finding much food for thought.

The class work on Wednesday evenings is based on the Beatitudes, next Wednesday being the second of these lessons. On Friday at 8 o'clock the second mystery lesson will be given, this being "The Mystery of Elohim." All the work of the Centre is open to the public and is conducted on the freewill offering plan.

To Present Bible Word About War

A lecture will be given under the auspices of the Victoria and District British-Israel Association by W. H. Blackaller, at the Maccabees Hall next Tuesday, at 8 o'clock. His subject will be "The Bible Declares that Wars Will Cease: When and by What Means?"

Mr. Blackaller is well known throughout Canada as a lecturer on British-Israel. He has studies the subject for a great many years, and very few have such a grasp of this truth as he possesses. In these days of perplexity and uncertainly, everyone should come and hear what the Bible says on this vital and important subject.

GRAND CLIMAX TO BE QUERIED

Dr. Davies Will Lecture at Empire Theatre on Approaching Crisis

Steadily mounting congregations continue to wait on Dr. Clem Davies' Sunday evening ministry at the Empire Theatre, with visiting clergy on holidays attending in large groups and expressing amazement at the unusually well-filled auditorium for this season of the year.

Dr. Clem Davies will still develop further on Sunday evening his prophetic series with the subject: "Civilization Approaching Crisis: Is the Grand Climax Imminent?" This will be an extension of his last Sunday's subject, in which he stated that world revolution has been deliberately set afoot, giving startling facts to bear out his assertion.

Evening music will bring a return of hymns that were popular a generation ago: "The Glory Song," "While the Days Are Going By," "Will Your Anchor Hold?" "Maidstone" and "Mine Eyes Have Seen the Coming of the Glory of the Lord."

In the morning Dr. Davies will take for his subject, "What I Believe About the Anglo-Saxon."

APOSTLES' CREED IN SERMON TOPIC

In Knox Presbyterian Church, Stanley Avenue, on Sunday the minister, Rev. J. S. Patterson will be on "The Apostles' Creed," and at 7:30 on "The Hands of the Lord." There will be special music at both services.

Church Personals

Among the many prominent churchmen who have associated themselves with the Oxford Group Movement in England is Canon B. H. Streeter, Provost of Queen's College, Oxford, and one of the most distinguished scholars of the Church of England. He made a declaration to this effect during the recent international house party at Oxford, in the presence of about 2,000 persons. In the course of his address, Dr. Streeter said that he had come to the conclusion "that I ought not to take an attitude of benevolent neutrality towards what I have come to believe is the most important religious movement at the moment."

The Church of England Newspaper clips from a recent book on "Humor From Pulpit and Pew," the following limerick, which is attributed to Dean Inge:

"There was a good Canon of Durham,
Who fished with a hook and a worrum.
Said the Dean to the Bishop,
'I've brought a big fish up,
But I fear we may have to inter'm.'"

The Dean of Ripon Cathedral, Dr. Manfield Owen, recently conducted the annual service for wayfarers, which was attended by 1,500 cyclists and hikers.

Gives Lights and Shadows of Early Days of Province

THE readers of The Colonist who last Sunday followed the trail with Rev. Robert Jamieson as he carried the gospel message to the lonely places in the Interior of British Columbia during the '80's of last century, will be interested in further excerpts from his engrossing diary. Tomorrow there will be recounted how judge and lawyers drove the parson to the hay loft to sleep and made up for it by a liberal collection. Some of the privations of the early days will be suggested and the expansion which took place after the Colonies became a Province in 1871.

DR. SWITZER TO QUOTE GHANDI

Will Discuss Challenge of Hindu Mahatma at Oak Bay United Service

Dr. Gerald Breen Switzer, pastor, will conduct both services at the Oak Bay United Church tomorrow. "A Meditation on the Master" will constitute his morning theme.

In the evening he will speak on "Ghandi Advises Christians." Dr. E. Stanley Jones, noted missionary, traveler and author, once asked the Mahatma what advice he could offer Christians. Dr. Switzer's evening subject will deal with Ghandi's challenging reply.

SOMERVILLE AND CAMPBELL IN CANADIAN FINAL

Gomez and Rowe in Great Pitching Victories as Yanks-Tigers Break Even

Pitching Features Crucial Series in Close Flag Race

Star Left-Hander Twirls Yankees to First-Game Win, 5-0, But "Schoolboy" Rowe Blanks New Yorkers in Second, 2-0—Giants Take Pair From Bucs—Cards Triumph as Cubs Lose

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor.

YANKEE STADIUM, NEW YORK, Aug. 17 (AP).—Lynwood ("Schoolboy") Rowe, Detroit, twenty-two-old pitching sensation from Eldorado, Arkansas, stood the New York Yankees on their collective heads today for the second time in three days and swept to his fourteenth consecutive victory of the American League campaign on the crest of a dazzling shut-out performance.

The giant "boy" wonder, who is now within two games of equalling the record American League streak of sixteen, jointly held by Joe Wood, Walter Johnson and Bob Grove, pitched the Tigers to an even break in the concluding double-header of the crucial series and thrilled a crowd of 46,571 spectators.

Vernon "Lefty" Gomez, obtaining revenge for his shellacking in the first game of the series, blanked the Tigers by 5-0 in today's opener. But the Tigers left the Yankee Stadium with three out of five games in their bag and a commanding margin of 5 1-2 games over New York in the pennant race.

PITCHING BRILLIANT

Brilliant pitching thus marked both ends of the double bill, but Rowe was easily the hero as he handed the Yankees their second coat of whitewash for 1934 and the third they have experienced within two seasons.

He was in serious trouble only once, in the sixth, when the Yankees filled the bases with two out on a pair of passes and a single by Jack Saltzgaver. Rowe fanned Billy Dickey to close this critical frame, besides striking out Babe Ruth, pinch-hitting in the eighth for Ben Chapman, and whiffing the mighty Lou Gehrig in the ninth.

The Tigers were unable to do a thing with Jimmy Deshong, who got over his wildness and held Detroit to only five hits all told in the eight innings he worked. Johnny Murphy pitched the ninth and set the Bengals down in order for the fifth game in a row.

Gomez yielded eight hits to Sorrell's six in the first game, but the southpaw, in scoring his twentieth victory of the year, was highly effective in the pinches and was aided by two double plays in addition to sensational support from Babe Ruth.

First game—	R.	H.	E.
Detroit	0	8	1
New York	5	6	0

Batteries—Sorrell and Hayworth; Gomez and Dickey.

Second game—	R.	H.	E.
Detroit	2	5	0
New York	0	3	1

Batteries—Rowe and Cochrane; Deshong and Dickey.

Senators Take Pair

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17 (AP).—Washington captured both games of a double-header with Cleveland Indians today, 4-3 and 1-0.

Cecil Travis broke the deadlock in the tenth inning of the first game when he singled and was advanced around the circuit on singles by Myer and Bolton.

Washington's run in the second game was scored by Myer. Pearson walked him, allowed him to take second on a wild pitch and finally let him cross the plate on a second bad throw after he had gone to third on Bolton's sacrifice.

First game—	R.	H.	E.
Cleveland	3	11	0
Washington	4	14	0

Batteries—Hildebrand and Berg, Pytlak; Whitehill and Bolton.

Second game—	R.	H.	E.
Cleveland	0	3	3
Washington	1	4	0

Batteries — Pearson and Pytlak; Bucke and Bolton.

Hits Three Homers

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 17 (AP).—Philadelphia Athletics and Chicago White Sox divided a double-header today, the Mackmen winning the first game, 9-8, in ten innings, for their sixth straight victory, and losing the second, 3-2. Ed. Coleman hit three home runs. Jimmy Foxx's thirty-eighth home run in the second game sent him one ahead of Lou Gehrig.

First game—	R.	H.	E.
Chicago	8	13	1
Philadelphia	9	13	2

Batteries—Earnshaw and Madjeski; Benton, Dietrich and Berry, J. Hayes.

Second game—	R.	H.	E.
Chicago	3	7	0
Philadelphia	2	4	0

Batteries—Lyons and Shaw; Cascarella, Cain and Berry, F. Hayes.

Sox, Browns Split

BOSTON, Aug. 17 (AP).—George Blaeholder pitched the Browns to a 5-2 victory in the second game of a twin bill here today after Wes Ferrell hung up his eleventh win of the season for the Boston Red Sox by limiting the Browns to two hits for a 6-0 victory in the opener.

First game—	R.	H.	E.
St. Louis	0	2	2
Boston	6	10	2

Batteries — Newsom, McAfee and Hemsley; W. Ferrell and R. Ferrell.

Second game—	R.	H.	E.
St. Louis	5	8	2
Boston	2	6	2

Batteries—Blaeholder and Hemsley; Rhodes, H. Johnson, Mulligan and R. Ferrell.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 17 (AP). — The Giants took a couple of long strides toward the National League pennant today when they subdued the Pirates in both ends of a double-header, 7-3 and 8-3. The double triumph, coupled with Chicago's loss to Boston, gave the Giants a 5 1-2 game lead.

First game—	R.	H.	E.
New York	7	11	0
Pittsburgh	3	3	0

Batteries — Parmelee, Smith and Mancuso; Lucas, French, Chagnon, Birkofer and Grace.

Second game—	R.	H.	E.
New York	8	18	1
Pittsburgh	3	10	3

Batteries—Hubbell and Danning; Meine, French, Swift and Padden.

Cubs Are Beaten

CHICAGO, Aug. 17 (AP).—Even the return of Chuck Klein and Bill Jurges to the starting lineup after long illness absences couldn't thwart their Boston jinx and the Cubs were again defeated by the Braves today, 5-2.

The victory, which gave the Braves the series, three games to one, was their eleventh in eighteen games with the Chicagoans this season.

Boston	5	11	1
Chicago	2	6	1

Batteries — Betts, Smith and Hogan; Spohrer, Weaver, Root and Hartnett.

Dodgers Trim Reds

CINCINNATI, Aug. 17 (AP). — Brooklyn Dodgers clouted the Reds into a semblance of submission today but had to stand off a ninth inning rally that netted three runs to win the series final, 12-4.

The Dodgers knocked Larry Benton out in the fourth, got a couple of blows off Ted Kleinhans in the same inning and finished against Ray Kolp, getting fourteen blows in all.

Brooklyn	12	14	2
Cincinnati	4	10	3

Batteries — Leonard and Lopez; Benton, Kleinhans, Kolp and Manion.

ENGLISH NET STARS LOSE IN U.S. MEET

Freda James and Katherine Stammers Eliminated From Tourney

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Aug. 17 (AP).—Little Sarah Palfrey and Carolin Babcock today repelled England's challenge for the forty-seventh United States women's singles championship.

Miss Palfrey conquered frail Freda James, 6-3, 3-6, 6-1, and Miss Babcock out-steadied and out-slugged left-handed Katherine Stammers, 6-3, 2-6, 6-4, before a roaring gallery of 3,000, in the quarter-final round.

Helen Hull Jacobs, defending champion, swamped Elizabeth Ryan, the veteran Californian, 6-0, 6-1, and Dorothy Andrus, the Stamford, Conn., millionairess, disposed of Baroness Maude Levi, of Minden, Nev., 6-1, 6-4.

Reach Canadian Final

ROSS SOMERVILLE

"SCOTTY" CAMPBELL

WHO will meet today over the thirty-six-hole distance at Montreal, for the Canadian amateur golf championship. Somerville, of London, Ontario, will be making his fifth bid for the crown he has held on four other occasions; while Campbell, the twenty-year-old Seattle youngster, will be out to retain the honors he captured last year at Vancouver, by downing Ken Black, Vancouver, in the final. In yesterday's semi-finals, Somerville eliminated Jesse Guilford, Boston, 9 and 8, while Campbell accounted for Ernie Palmer, Winnipeg youth, 5 and 4.

Final Test Match to Open Today Between England and Aussies

Match to a Finish Will Commence in Old Country This Morning—Bromley and Darling Out—Voce's Appearance Remains an Uncertainty

LONDON, Aug. 17 (CP). — They were lining up at the oval tonight for the opening of the decisive test cricket match between England and Australia, which gets under way at 11:30 tomorrow morning, and will be fought to a decision regardless of time limit.

Twenty hours before the umpires were to call "play," there was a start on the queue promising a record crowd. The weather looked fine, the pitch was never in better condition; the rubber in the series was at stake and also the balance of victory in the great series that started in 1867.

The only fly in the ointment — several flies to be exact—consisted of uncertainties about the respective teams, personnel of which will not be definite until a few hours before the great game commences.

OUT OF GAME

First, E. H. Bromley, the Aussies' good relief bowler, was taken to hospital with symptoms of appendicitis which developed following extraction of some teeth.

It was announced at the same time that Alan Kippax, another relief man, would likely replace Leonard Darling, a stalwart bat.

Second, it was officially announced that Patsy Hendren, one of England's most reliable test batters, would not be able to play. The bruise he received on the arm in a county match earlier in the week led medical advisers to tell the selection committee it was inadvisable Hendren be called on.

Third, it was stated C. F. Walters, of Worcestershire, one of England's main reliances, would be fit to play after all. Also, the committee invited, and the invitation was accepted, F. E. Woolley, the veteran from Kent, to get in the match. Woolley first met the Aussies twenty-three years ago.

Whether William Voce, whose bowling for Nottinghamshire revived the bodyline bowling controversy in full force, would be in the English lineup or not, remained uncertain tonight, but there was no announcement that he had been invited. Odds were he would not appear.

SEATS ALL SOLD

Every seat had been sold for the first three days of the match. It may go longer than that. Adding to the exciting prospects was the report that I. R. A. Peebles, a surprise selecion for England, has a new freak "mystery" ball of the googley type so effectually used by Clarence Grimmett and Fleetwood Smith, of the Aussies.

The oval has always been a lucky ground for England. The Aussies have won just two matches there in sixty years — one in 1882 and another in 1930.

Local Canoeists Will Compete in Vancouver Meet

When the starter's gun barks at English Bay at 11 o'clock, tomorrow morning, to send the contestants off in the Vancouver Canoe Club's fifteen-mile race, Victoria will be represented by Cliff Renouf and Jimmy Heal, husky local paddlers.

The race will start at English Bay and finish at Bowen Island. Prizes for the event have been donated by the Union Steamship Company.

Cricket and Ball Games Listed on Sports Card Today

Baseball

2:30—Bellingham vs. Sons of Canada, Royal Athletic Park.

6:15—Bellingham vs. Sons of Canada, Royal Athletic Park.

Cricket

2:15—Albions vs. Wanderers, Beacon Hill Park.

2:15—Five C's vs. Incogs, Mount Tolmie.

2:15—Victoria vs. Cowichan, Macdonald Park.

FINALISTS ARE NAMED IN TOURNEY

Dranga to Meet Brawn and Jean Milne Will Face Eleanor Young

DUNCAN, Aug. 17.—Some good tennis was witnessed by a large crowd of spectators at Duncan, today, when play was brought down to the finals in all open events. In the men's singles, Dranga, Seattle, beat Colin Gamlin, Vancouver, 6-2, 6-1, but the games were closer than the score would indicate. Long rallies and repeated deuce games in the lower bracket aided J. Brawn in beating L. A. Brown, Philadelphia, in straight sets.

In the women's singles, Jean Milne, Vancouver, defeated the defending champion, Mrs. Golda M. Gross, of Berkeley, in straight sets, 6-3, 6-4. Eleanor Young disposed of her doubles partner, Vess O'Shea, by the same score. Miss O'Shea had a lead in the first set, but could not hold it against Miss Young's superior steadiness.

W. E. Corfield and Mrs. R. B. Wilson, Victoria, scored an easy win over Ross Hocking and Jean Milne in the mixed event, and will meet powerful opposition, tomorrow, in Dranga and Eleanor Young, who today disposed of McCallum and Jean Campbell, 6-0, 6-2.

EXPECT GOOD MATCH

Tomorrow's men's doubles match between Dranga and Hocking and Williams and Gamlin should provide some good tennis. The latter pair put out Victoria's strong doubles team of Gordon and McCallum, in a particularly good match, today.

Brown and Fletcher played a marathon against Corfield and Kingston, this morning, the match lasting two and one-quarter hours before the former won. The score was 8-10, 7-5, 6-4.

One of the best matches of the day was a women's doubles, in which Eleanor Young and Vess O'Shea won after three hard sets against Mrs. Wilson and Jean Campbell. All four were playing excellent tennis, but the Vancouver pair had the edge most of the time.

THE RESULTS

Play of the finals will start at 1:45 o'clock tomorrow, and some first-class tennis assured.

Men's Singles—Semi-Final

Dranga beat Gamlin, 6-3, 6-1.

J. Brawn beat L. A. Brown, 6-1, 6-3.

Women's Singles—Semi-Final

Jean Milne beat Mrs. Gross, 6-3, 6-4.

Eleanor Young beat Vess O'Shea, 6-3, 6-4.

Mixed Doubles—Quarter-Finals

Hocking and Jean Milne beat Leney and Mildred Philipsen, 6-1, 6-2.

W. E. Corfield and Mrs. Wilson beat Gamlin and Miss Moncrieff, 6-4, 12-10.

McCallum and Jean Campbell beat Williams and Phyllis Whyte, 6-4, 6-8, 6-4.

Dranga and Eleanor Young beat L. A. Brown and Vess O'Shea, 6-3, 6-0.

Semi-Finals

W. E. Corfield and Mrs. Wilson beat Hocking and Jean Milne, 6-3, 6-2.

Dranga and Eleanor Young beat McCallum and Jean Campbell, 6-0, 6-2.

Men's Doubles—Quarter-Finals

J. Brawn and Hocking beat Keays and Fellowes, 2-1 (retired).

Brown and Fletcher beat Kingston and Corfield, 8-10, 7-5, 6-4.

Semi-Finals

Brawn and Hocking beat Brown and Fletcher, 6-3, 6-2.

Williams and Gamlin beat McCallum and Gordon, 6-0, 6-4.

Women's Doubles

Mrs. Gross and Miss Milne beat Miss Moncrieff and Miss Whyte, 6-1, 6-3.

Eleanor Young and Vesa O'Shea beat Mrs. Wilson and Jean Campbell, 6-3, 2-6, 6-2.

CRICKET LINE-UP

FORMER AMATEUR CHAMPION MEETS SEATTLE YOUTH

Brilliant London, Ontario, Shotmaker, Will Attempt to Dethrone "Scotty" Campbell of Dominion Golf Title at Montreal, Today—Somerville Trims Guilford With Ease

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LAVAL-SUR-LE-LAC., Que., Aug. 17 (CP).—Two of the ranking amateur golfers of Canada and the United States, C. R. "Sandy" Somerville, of London, Ont., and Albert "Scotty" Campbell, of Seattle, will tour the wooded fairways of the Laval course, tomorrow, with the Canadian title at stake.

Canadian defence of the Earl Grey Golf Cup was placed on the broad shoulders of Somerville, who has won it four times against the American amateur's once, when he reached the peak of his game to smother Jesse Guilford, the old Boston siege-gun, 9 and 8, in a scheduled thirty-six-hole semi-final.

Western Canada's hopes for the coveted crown, which hinged on the precise but unspectacular shot-making of twenty-one-year-old Ernie Palmer, of Winnipeg, faded today when "Scotty" chalked up a fairly easy victory, spelling the Winnipegger's elimination.

Nevertheless, Palmer stands today as one of the best tournament players in the Dominion. It was the verdict of the sideline galleries who watched his unvarying play that his latest performance stamped him as one of Canada's best.

Campbell, defending the cup he won last year in Vancouver, taking it to the United States for the second time in its history, had a comparatively easy win.

CAMPBELL BRILLIANT

Campbell really only played two bad shots in thirty-two holes, an approach away off line and a putt that lacked direction. In the morning he toured the eighteen holes in 70, one under par, to take a six-hole lead. He gathered three birdies in the morning and two in the afternoon, a fair total for the day.

Against that sort of golf, Palmer was put on the defensive from the start. All he could do was try to keep the margin as low as possible and hope that Campbell would crack. But Campbell didn't crack, and Palmer lost after fighting every inch of the game.

Facing a six-hole deficit after the morning round, Palmer tightened his game. The fair-haired, slender 'Peg boy actually outshot the defending titlist, winning back a hole and shooting a 37 to Campbell's 38 for fourteen holes. But the morning deficit was too much for him, Campbell winning the match at the thirty-second, which has halved in par.

Ever since Campbell beat young Ken Black, of Vancouver, in the thirty-six-hole final last year, 3 and 2, when Somerville was campaigning in England and Scotland, Canadian golfers have been asking themselves what would have happened if the twenty-year-old Seattle boy had been playing Somerville the best amateur golfer Canada has developed. They may have some line on the hypothetical question tomorrow, when the two start over the long thirty-six-hole route leading to the 1934 title, with eighteen holes in the morning and eighteen in the afternoon.

As a result of a series of par and sub-par rounds, Campbell was installed a doubtful favorite in overnight betting. It will take par or sub-par golf to prevent the cup making a second trip to the Pacific Coast. Campbell was even par for thirty-two holes, eliminating the Winnipeg lad, who fought doggedly every inch of the way. Never forced to the limit of his game, due to the erratic play of the thirty-nine-year-old Guilford, Somerville went two over par for twenty-eight holes, sufficient to win with ease.

EASY VICTORY

Guilford never was in the picture after losing the first hole. He won the eighth when Somerville slipped over par with some sloppy putting. It was the only hole Guilford won until the nineteenth, which proved to be the last he was to win. His morning card was 79 to Somerville's 72, the Canadian leading by five holes. In the afternoon, Somerville for the third time had a thirty-six for nine holes, extending his lead to eight. The one-sided match ended at the twenty-eighth, which Somerville won to take the match, 9 and 8.

New Manager of the Cincinnati Reds

CHARLES DRESSEN

SUCCEEDING Bob O'Farrell, relieved as manager while the Cincinnati Reds floundered hopelessly in the National League cellar, Charles Dressen, above, former major leaguer and manager of the Nashville club in the Southern Association, is announced as new pilot of the team. Dressen started his big league career with the Reds in 1924.

TEAMS PLAY TO DEADLOCK

Tillicums Hold Poodle Dog Cafe Nine to 3-3 Score in Play-Off Game

Holding the Poodle Dog Cafe squad to a 3-3 score yesterday evening at Royal Athletic Park in a game which bobbles played an important role, Tillicums prolonged their fight for the Senior Baseball League bunting by forcing a fourth game with the cafemen. The fixture will be played Monday evening at 6:15 o'clock and a win for the cafe squad will mean the elimination of the clubmen and send the Poodle Dog nine against the Sons of Canada in the final play-downs.

Given two runs in the fifth inning when Henry Harris, "kid" shortstop of the Tillicums, made two costly boots, the Poodle Dog Cafe nine appeared to be headed for sure victory, with the score 3-2 in their favor in the last inning with two men down. However, the break came for the clubmen, when, with two men on, Bill Bridgewood, Poodle Dog catcher, dropped the third strike on Restell, then made a bad throw to first allowing Mowat to score with the tying marker.

CLOSE CALL

The cafemen came close to pulling the game out of the fire in their half of the seventh. With one man down and the cushions loaded as the result of two singles and a walk, Dunc, pinch-hitting for Noble, laced out a high fly to centrefield to Barnswell for the second out, and Nicholson raced in from third. A smart play, Barnswell to Jones to McGinnis, caught the cafe runner just as he was coming into the plate and saved the Tillicums from certain defeat.

It was one of the best double killings seen at the local enclosure for many a day, with the veteran McGinnis making the put-out in big league fashion.

Lloyd Jones, clubmen's hurler, was nicked for nine safeties, fairly well scattered, but failed to show the form he displayed in Monday evening's fixture.

Jack Noble, doing the heavy work for the cafe squad, was nicked for seven hits, while he breezed three.

AN OLD STAG WAS CAPTURED IN FONTAINEBLEAU IN 1378 WITH A COLLAR OF BRONZE ABOUT HIS NECK BEARING THE LATIN INSCRIPTION "CÆSAR MIHI HOC DONAVIT"—INDICATING AN AGE OF 1436 YRS

EXPLANATION FOR YESTERDAY'S RIPLEY CARTOON

Hair in the Palm of His Hand—Roy Deason, of Ecorse, Michigan, had an unfortunate accident that resulted in a queer growth of hair that seems impossible—hair in the palm of his hand. Deason was employed in the mill of the Michigan Steel Corporation, July 11, 1933, and in the course of his work his hand was caught in a machine in such a peculiar manner that he lost one finger and all the flesh from the palm of his hand. Doctors of the Michigan Mutual Hospital found it necessary to graft flesh from his abdomen, and in so doing grafted a piece with a growth of hair that has continued to grow. So, contrary to the old adage, Deason proudly proves that hair can grow in the palm of the hand.

JOSHUA GREEN CAPTURES SENIORS' GOLF TITLE

Defeats C. Harold One Up After Close Battle; Meet Ends

Finalist of Two Years Ago Comes Through in Eighteen-Hole Battle by Narrow Margin—Class Championships All Taken by Visitors—Tournament Is Great Success

Playing steadier from the tee to green, although off line with some of his wood shots, and erratic at times with his unorthodox style of putting, Joshua Green, genial veteran from Seattle, achieved his big ambition yesterday at the Royal Colwood Golf Club when he captured the grand championship of the twelfth annual Seniors' Northwest Association by defeating another Sound City contender, Curtis R. Harold, in the eighteen-hole final, one up. Green succeeds W. H. Abbott, Bellingham, as titleholder. For the past three years Green has been gunning for the Barnard Cup, symbolic of the crown, and was forced to wait until yesterday to accomplish his aim. Two years ago he reached the final, only to watch Col. J. P. Fell, Vancouver, sink a forty-footer on the nineteenth green to take the title from him, after one of the most dramatic grand championships in history.

All the class championships went to invading golfers, the two Victorians, Dr. A. J. Garesche and C. Stanier, losing out in the finals of Class "A" and Class "B," respectively. The former went under before the fine playing of the newly-chosen president, C. S. Battle, of Vancouver, 5 and 3, and the latter bowed to George R. Cartier, of Tacoma, 2 and 1. First flight of the grand championship went to W. H. Abbott, former champion and this year's medalist, when he won from C. F. G. Pattullo, of Spokane, 6 and 5.

CUPS PRESENTED

J. Gillison of Portland, took class "C" from R. S. Farrell, Portland, 2 and 1, while J. A. Duncan, Seattle, took class "D" by his one-up victory over Dr. O. B. Wight, Portland. Following the finals, silverware won during the week was presented to the various winners and runners-up by the retiring president, Elmer E. Todd, of Seattle. All the seniors were high in praise of the fine condition of the course and the beautiful weather enjoyed.

An interested spectator during the battle for the grand championship was His Honor J. W. Fordham Johnson, Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia. He was accompanied to the course by his secretary, A. M. D. Fairbairn, and his aide, Capt. Hobart Molson. His Honor is honorary president of the seniors' association.

TAKES EARLY LEAD

Reaching the timbers with his second shot, after lacing out a beautiful drive beyond the 200-yard mark, Harold ran into trouble on the first hole, and, after taking three to get out, conceded the hole to Green. Harold had a good drive at the second, but lost the hole when Green got to the clear from the rough with his second and then laid his approach dead for a par four. The third was halved in sixes and the short fourth in fours. Two beautiful drives whistled off the long fifth tee, but Harold found the rough on the right with his second. However, he recovered good enough to gain a half in par fives.

Harold's tee shot was under the branches of the first at the right at the next hole, but his second shot was played just about perfect, the ball stopping near the edge of the green, while his opponent was over to the right. This hole was also halved in fives. A par three gave Harold the short seventh and Green was now only one up.

GREEN ONE UP

Another sliced drive took Harold to the right amid the tall oaks at the eighth, but he played a fine No. 4 iron to the carpet to gain a half in fours. Harold played a great shot at the ninth, pitching over the oaks to the edge of the green, but his putting touch deserted him and he lost the hole to head down the back stretch one down. Disaster crept into Harold's game again at the dog-leg tenth, putting three balls out of bounds in succession after getting a long drive. He conceded the hole to make Green two up.

Although he caught a bunker with his drive, Green recovered well enough to halve the eleventh in fours. A five gave Harold the long and difficult twelfth, and then he went on to square the match by winning the lake-hole thirteenth with a four. Green's second at the fourteenth caught the trap at the left, but he got out in brilliant style and the hole was halved in fives. Green had a great chance to take the lead at the short fifteenth, but missed a short putt, the ball rimming the cup. A pair of fives was good enough to halve the sixteenth, and then Green went dormie by taking the seventeenth with a par four to Harold's five. The latter was given a big opportunity to send the match to extra holes, but played the last hole badly and the best he could do was to gain a half, and the championship was all over for another year.

PET SHOW WILL BE HELD TODAY

With classes for almost every kind of pet, this afternoon's show at the grounds of Rev. J. S. and Mrs. Patterson, 878 Esquimalt Road, promises to be an outstanding success. Many valuable prizes have been presented for the exhibitors, while a Labrador puppy will be given to the holder of the lucky gate ticket.

Entries will be received at the grounds at 2 o'clock, with judging commencing one hour later. With prospects of a large number of pets being entered, the matter of selecting the winners will, no doubt, be a difficult task.

UNITED STATES RETAIN TROPHY

Defeat Canadian Golfers in International Match at Seniors' Tourney

Capturing the last four matches, the American golf squad retained the Walter Nichol Cup by defeating the Canadian side in the annual international match, held yesterday afternoon in conjunction with the Seniors' Northwest Association tournament, by a 9-6 score. It marked the second successive triumph for the invaders. Following the match, A. T. Goward, retiring chairman of the tournament committee, presented the trophy to W. H. Abbott, Bellingham, captain of the winners, who suitably replied with a brief speech.

Results, with the American players first mentioned, follow:

Joshua Green 1, C. P. W. Schwengers 0.

Curtis Harold 0, J. E. Wilson 1.
Paul Murphy 1, A. E. Griffin 0.
E. L. Mann 1, H. G. Wilson 0.

Remember When

(Twenty-Five Years Ago)

The bartenders will hold their branding and general round-up at Langford Plains, on Sunday, when the union will gather for a day's real entertainment. Harry Lalune and Jimmy Hook are busy making arrangements for the day, and a gala time will be pulled off.

A baseball match will be played between the local bartenders and Murphy's All-Star Irishmen. The members of the latter nine are practising hard every evening at Beacon Hill for the match, as there will be a big prize put up for the tossers that win.

Field sports will be a big issue at the round-up, and there will be all kinds of races, from the 100 yards up to the mile race, and a big bunch of local talent will go to the plains and make an attempt to gather some of the prizes.

The most important swimming meet for this year will be held at the Gorge on Saturday, when the balance of the championships of British Columbia will be decided. The first division of the championships was held at Vancouver last Saturday, when Victoria swimmers won a good many events, Frank Compton winning the 100 and 220-yard dashes.

The local colony of swimmers is training steadily at the Y.M.C.A. camp at the Gorge, and the hot weather that is being enjoyed at the present time of the year is a great inducements for the coming champions to take to the water like ducks.

The Victoria Lacrosse Club will go to Vancouver on Friday evening, as they have to play the Vancouver Maple Leafs on Saturday.

North Ward failed to show up for the ball game the other evening with the Empress Club, and Vic Warram's aggregation claimed the game by default.

Customer—Have you anything for grey hairs?

Chemist—Nothing, sir, but the greatest respect.

BLUE RIBAND OF SHOOTING BILLED TODAY

Governor-General's Match Will Wind Up Connaught Rifle Meeting

CONNAUGHT RIFLE RANGES, SOUTH MARCH, Ont., Aug. 17 (CP).—A great day of shooting under a torrid sun, today, brought the big annual meeting of the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association to its climax—tomorrow's final stage of the "Canadian King's Prize"—The Governor-General's match.

The brilliant sun and a slight westerly breeze had the targets dancing along a half-mile stretch as the City of Ottawa match, the King's Medal under service condtions, and two great team shoots—the Imperial Cadet Trophy and the Carling Trophy—were decided.

Central Canada triumphed over Eastern Canada and Western Canada in the greatest team shoot of the D.R.A. meet, the Carling match, at 300, 500 and 600 yards.

Capt. A. W. Hunt, Winnipeg, finished the big Ottawa individual shoot, at 200 and 900 yards, with 98 out of a possible 100 and was awarded the City of Ottawa Gold Medal.

Crack shots put on an exhibition of keen shooting for the Carling Trophy. When the results were totaled, Central and Eastern Canada were tied with 1,112 points, but the Central Canada men were awarded major honors by the great showing on the final at 800 yards, when they pulled up from the rear with the targets shimmering in the mirage. The Western eight concluded with 1,100, a good third.

WINS MEDAL

Capt. J. W. Houlden, of Sherbrooke, who did not reach his shooting pace until the middle of the week, was named Canada's best army shot when he won the King's Medal. He scored 170, which was eleven points more than Lieut. G. G. Carrba Harris, of Kingston, and C.Q.M.S. Alex Parnell, of Montreal.

More than 100 of Canada's crack army men took part in the match.

Lieut. James Boat, of Montreal, most consistent shot at the meeting, took third place with 157. He compiled a total of 527 points and received the National Rifle Association Silver Medal and the Lieutenant-Governor's Silver Medal and $30.

Lieut. Hilton D. Proctor, Ottawa, held down second place alone with 525 points. Capt. Hunt compiled 519, and three others, Capt. Houlden, Sergt. J. D. O'Connell, Fredericton, and Sergt. M. Penman, Montreal, were next in order with 518.

The 6th Machine Gun Battalion, of Halifax, won the City of Ottawa team prize with an aggregate of 37, one more than the Sherbrooke Regiment.

Headquarters M.D. 2 were announced recipients of the Imperial Tobacco Trophy, with 2,054, compared with 2,029 by the Governor-General's Foot Guards, and 2,019 by the Sherbrooke Regiment.

STAGES RALLY

In the City of Ottawa match, Capt. Hunt came from behind to nail major honors. He finished the first relay with 48, well back in the list, but popped on a possible at 900 to rest one point in front of Lieut. Sweet and Lieut. J. Neal Dow, Saint John. The Bisley mates tagged along at each stage, both having 49's at the 200-yard "baby" range and 48's at 900.

Canada's 150 best were ready tonight for tomorrow's grind in the final stage of the Governor-General's match.

BRITISH COLUMBIA SCORES

The City of Ottawa match was again the graveyard of some good scores. This match was shot at 200 and 900 yards, ten shots at each. Light conditions were a little difficult at 200 yards, but the wind at 900 yards was the chief cause of the trouble. Bandsman F. Drysdale led the British Columbia men in this event, with 46-50—90, to take fourth place. Capt. A. Hunt, of the P.P.C.L.I., won the match with 98. Some scores of 89 were counted out. Other British Columbia scores were: Sergt. J. Lovegrove, 95; Cpl. B. W. Beaumont, 94; L.-Cpl. E. Nicholson, 94; A.C.Q. I. M. Grant, 91; S.A.Q.M.S. W. B. McKay, 90; Capt. D Fyvie, 89; Cpl. H. L. Taylor, 89; Rflm. H. M. Gibault, 89.

The grand aggregate was won by Lieut. J. Boat, of Montreal, with a total of 527. A.Q.M.S. A. E. Evans led the British Columbia team, with a total of 513 for eighteenth place. Scores of 493 were in the prize list and included L.-Cpl. E. Nicholson, 508; Lt.-Col. R. M. Blair, 506.

Other scores: Bandsman F. Drysdale, 504; Rflm. H. M. Gibault, 504; Cpl. B. W. Beaumont, 503; Lt.-Col. F. H. G. Letson, 502; Capt. D. Fyvie, 500; Q.M.S. W. B. McKay, 497; Sergt. L. C. Willoughby, 497; A.C.Q. I. M. Grant, 496; Cpl. A. H. Greenwood, 496.

Central Canada won the Carling match with 1,115, Eastern Canada, 1,113; Western Canada, 1,100.

Visitor Hooks Ten Fish at Brentwood

Holidaying in this city for the first time in thirty years, James McPhee, manager of Transvaal & Delagoa Bay Coal Mines, of Transvaal, South Africa, is loud in his praise of the scenic beauties of Vancouver Island and its excellent fishing. In company with Dr. E. C. Hart and Sue Moody, Mr. McPhee visited Brentwood, Wednesday, and enjoyed a day's sport on the slowly rippling waters of Brentwood Bay, where he hooked ten salmon. Two of the fish were over thirty pounds, two over twenty-five pounds, and the remainder of the catch ranging from twelve to fifteen pounds.

Dundee Wins Easily

NEW YORK, Aug. 17 (AP).—Vince Dundee, of Newark, middleweight champion of the world, gained an easy decision over Tony Brescia, of New York, in a ten-round non-title bout at the Fort Hamilton Arena tonight.

Dundee was the aggressor all the way and won much as he pleased. The champion weighed 162 1-2 pounds; Brescia, 163.

Security Prices Hold Up Well at New York Mart

NEW YORK, Aug. 17 (AP). — Speculative markets remained in a rut today, but bonds forged ahead vigorously on a recovery for the fourth consecutive day. The share market trend was mainly lower.

Transfers of stocks decreased to 447,030 shares.

Fertilizer stocks were strong on the favorable earnings report turned in by American Agricultural Chemical and belief that the crop situation would encourage relatively active buying of fertilizers by farmers. American Agricultural Chemical expanded its previous gains by more than 2 points, rising to a new 1934 high above 38. Virginia Carolina Chemical $7 preferred spurted 10 points on small transactions. International Agricultural rose 5 points.

The firm undertone of the domestic corporate bond market was well maintained in today's trading. The United States Government list was again steady.

Transfers aggregated $8,450,000 par value. The foreign list was irregular.

Stocks Continue to Show Little Change At Eastern Markets

MONTREAL, Aug. 17 (CP). — Practically the whole list rose to higher price levels on the Montreal Stock Exchange today in a session of comparatively heavy trading.

Hollinger maintained the leadership in activity and strength, finally closing at 19.65, up 20 cents.

Brazilian Traction was another strong feature, gaining 3-4 at 10. Canadian Bronze rose two points.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE

TORONTO, Aug. 17 (CP). — Brazilian Traction was the only definitely strong issue of good volume on the industrial board of the Toronto exchange today. It closed 5-8 higher at 10 5-8. Eighteen stocks closed lower and 16 higher.

The inter-listed leaders made no headway. Nickel closed at 24 7-8, unchanged, and Ford "A" dropped 1-4, while C.P.R. finished steady at 13 1-2.

Trading dwindled in the food group with prices showing few variations. Advances elsewhere included Moore Corporation "A," 1 1-2; Bell Telephone 1, Canadian Oil preferred 1, and Goodyear Tire preferred 1 1-2.

That Body of Yours

(By James W. Barton, M.D.)

LIME (CALCIUM) SERVES MANY USEFUL PURPOSES IN THE BODY

One of the mineral elements absolutely necessary for proper growth and maintenance of the body is calcium, or lime as it is more properly called.

Lime helps build the bones and teeth, helps to thicken the blood, helps old wounds to heal, prevents escape of too much blood from cuts, relieves pain in cancer, stimulates the heart and other muscles.

Now the usual diet for many people consists of meat, bread, cereals, potatoes and sweets, all of which are deficient in lime. As a result of this there is constipation, rickets (soft bones), poor bone development and tooth decay.

Now the foods rich in lime are all nourishing and easily obtained. They are milk, cheese, leafy vegetables and egg yolk. Milk stands first and you can readily see what this means to the baby and growing child in furnishing the material for good strong bones.

Dr. Alice R. Bernheim, in The Journal of the American Medical Association, reminds us that our dietary is poor in calcium.

General health is improved and recovery from disease aided when the full lime needs of the body are filled by proper foods.

Without milk or cheese in the diet it is difficult to obtain the needed lime through food alone.

If the individual will not drink milk or eat cheese, fruits, or eggs, then some form of concentrated lime such as lime lactate or lime gluconate may be taken. Viosterol, vitamin D, or cod liver oil help the absorption of lime into the blood.

Dr. Bernheim also points out that too much fat in the diet interferes with the absorption of lime into the blood; the fatty acids combine with the lime, forming insoluble soaps which cannot be absorbed.

In order to get the full benefit of the lime, foods containing lime should be eaten at the beginning of the meal, and lime in the form of lime lactate or lime gluconate should be taken before meals.

Remember, then, that lime is of great value to that body of yours—builder, relieves pain, stimulates heart and other muscles, prevents acidosis, heals wounds, coagulates the blood to prevent bleeding.

Remember also that milk stands first as a lime food, with cheese, leafy vegetables and egg yolk as the next best.

WHEAT PRICES TUMBLE AGAIN

Futures Drop More Than Cent at Winnipeg—Export Demand Is Lacking

WINNIPEG, Aug. 17 (CP). — Scattered selling of only moderate volume was sufficient to depress values 1 1-2 to 1 3-8 cents on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today in a market able to muster only a minimum of support.

Downturns of 2 1-8 to 2 3-4d at Liverpool kept traders off the buying side and there was nothing in the way of export demand to absorb the slack. Selling came chiefly from Chicago interests, commission houses and country elevators.

October wheat closed at 84 7-8, December at 86 1-4 and May at 89 3-4 cents.

Virginia Vane Says:

FAMILY DISAPPROVAL PLUS UNSTEADY FINANCES BAD MARRIAGE COMBINATION

Dear Virginia Vane: I am twenty years old and have been working for two years at a job which I do not find congenial. I am seriously in love with a man who wants to marry me. My family disapprove of him and are making things very difficult for me. He does not earn very much money, but we could get along on what he earns. He has had many financial ups and downs, but has been very brave and cheerful through them all.

I long to have a home of my own and to give up the business grind to which I am not suited at all.—M. H.

There is some danger that you're seeking marriage as an escape from the business grind. You don't do it consciously. Your affection for the man may be real, but your urge to marry at once sounds as though it were caused by a desire to get out of the office at all costs.

So your judgment isn't as good as it might be. The way you figure it out now, anything would be better than the nine-to-five stretch of work. And thus you prefer to ignore all the difficulties involved in marrying a man your family doesn't approve of.

If your candidate for marriage were in a more secure financial position you could perhaps turn your back on family opinion more definitely. But, apparently, he has already suffered reverses of fortune and may indeed suffer them again. Which means that you may be forced to look to your people for support before many months.

A disapproving family called in to help a daughter who has deliberately flouted family wishes, can usually create discontent in any love-nest.

The man doesn't live who can graciously accept assistance from a set of people who openly disapprove of him. And there has never been a case on record of a father and mother who went out of their way to make a disliked son-in-law feel comfortable.

You must face the possibility of this situation. You must realize that any young couple starting out on an insecure financial footing under the shadow of parental disapproval are taking a grave risk. You must ask yourself whether you and the man you love are honestly prepared to take that risk with your eyes open.

I think you'd be wiser and happier in the long run if you waited either till you had won your family over to your true love—or until your husband could offer you some security. If you yourself would be willing to go on working and saving until you could contribute in some measure toward a more solid financial footing for the matrimonial venture, there would be a greater hope for your future happiness.

Dear Miss Vane: I am eighteen and he is twenty-five. He has been in love before and now knows his own mind. He is the first man I have ever known—and that is what worries me. I wasn't in love with him at first, but got the habit of being with him all the time, and now can't imagine life without him.

He went away for some time and I started to go out with other men but found that this hurt him too much. I couldn't bear to go on hurting him. I can't bear to send him away now. Yet I feel that I must test my love for him somehow. I've had so little experience. Please help.—R.B.W.

If you feel that your love must be tested, then that's a pretty sure sign of some big doubt buried way down in your mind. And it is intelligent of you to want to get things straightened out, before undertaking anything as serious as marriage.

Most girls in your position are so much in love with love that they can't bear to shatter their dreams. They cling to romance even though somewhere inside them a small voice is asking anxiously: "Is this the right thing for me—or have I drifted into it out of sheer habit?"

I can understand that you hate to break the spell—or to do anything to cause hurt to the man you love so much. But perhaps if he understands what's in the back of your mind he will be willing to help.

After all, he has had his experience, and so he is now in the comfortable position of knowing that he has found exactly what he wants. But if his love for you is true, he will want you to have that assurance. He will not be content with a half-doubting, half-fearful bride, who wonders occasionally whether she has not been cheated of her opportunities.

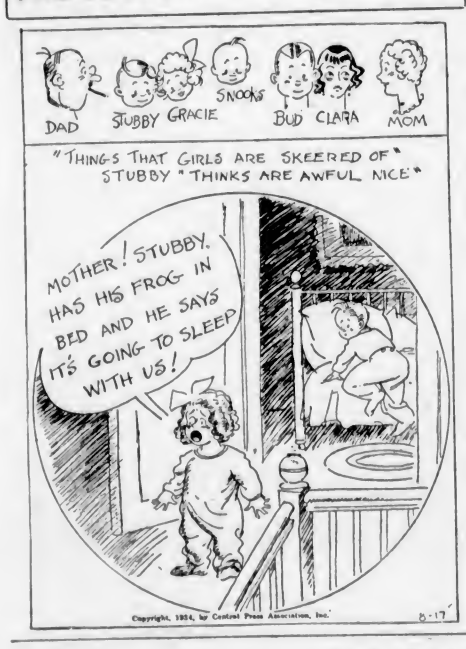

Try to see other people for a while and try to take the sting out of the situation for your hero by making him understand your motives.

Understand this: That your own mind is demanding some sort of test to prove to you that you've found the right man. And until your mind is satisfied you cannot be truly happy, nor help the man who loves you to be happy.

Mrs. R. M.: You are doing the right thing in trying to protect yourself from an infatuation which leads straight to trouble. The man's attitude is unfair and selfish. If you do not feel that you want your husband to deal with him, I can only suggest that you suggest taking legal action to end the affair. I do not believe your persecutor will go on with his attentions if he finds that you are prepared to bring the law to your assistance.

LAUNDRY WINS FROM ISLAND

Registers 12-3 Victory in First of Softball Play-Off Fixtures

Rosy McLellan, speedball hurler, paved the way for the New Method Laundry softball nine's victory over James Island, yesterday evening, at Central Park, by striking out seven batters, while his teammates hammered the offerings of "Stew" Smith and Devlin, Island pitchers, to check in with a 12-3 win in the first game of the three out of five series for the city and Lower Island championships.

The second game of the series will be played at Central Park this evening, at 6:10 o'clock, with Joe Williams in charge. A win tonight will give the laundry representatives the city title and a stranglehold of the Lower Island championship.

LAUNDRY RALLIES

Commencing with a revamped infield, the laundry men started out badly when James Island pushed over two runs, but in their half, New Method came back strong, and drove over six markers before the frame ended. With Ronnie Williams and Larry Kennedy on the bags, Craig McLelland smashed out a circuit drive to deep centre field to bring in three of the six runs scored in this session. It was one of the longest hits of the season.

Again, in the third, the laundry nine brought their heavy artillery into action, and finally drove Smith to the showers. Devlin was rushed in to the rescue, and proved capable of stemming the attack for the remainder of the fixture.

Score by innings:

New Method	615 010 000—12
James Island	200 001 000— 3

Batteries — McLellan and Kennedy; Smith, Devlin and Banks.

Pushing over five runs in an eighth-inning rally, North Saanich Service Club defeated Spencer's Diamonds, 9-8, yesterday evening, at Central Park, in a Peden Cup knockout fixture. Spencer's were leading, 8-4, until the suburban lads put on the pressure.

The resident secretary, in a provincial town, of one of the big insurance companies, was entertaining his general manager one day and suggested a game of golf, which offer was accepted. It so happened that the secretary was in unusually good form and the game ended at the twelfth hole. The manager was rather annoyed at being so heartily beaten, and he inquired acidly as he picked his ball off the green, "Tell me, Mr. Blank, what do you do in addition to golf?"

Among the Romans, Flora was the name of the goddess of flowers and of the Spring, identified by the poets with the Greek Chloris.

The Laughing Girl Mystery

By Viola Paradise

CHAPTER XIX

Higgins came in growling. "I suppose you still want me to leave the boy friend lay, huh? Unless Rankin finds some stuff?"

"I phoned headquarters. All the police cars will have his description by now, and the boys in the stations will be on the lookout. No outgoing steamers sailing tonight. We'll keep 'em covered. Other cities will be on the lookout, too. But of course he may have slunk into the country."

Rankin, the handwriting expert, entered and spread the tablets out on Alby's desk. Harrod and Higgins drew close. "Can't be sure," said Rankin. "Two words, Dennis Swift, aren't much to go by. Besides they're written by some one who was disguising his handwriting. I'd say if Sheridan Dinard didn't sign that register, Dennis Swift was a first-class counterfeiter of disguised handwriting. On the other hand, look at this '4:30 p.m.' That 'p.m.' is almost the same as the initials of Peter Marlin on this." He unfolded Marlin's typed note.

"Would you say the same man signed that note, too?"

"Might have. It's hard to be certain of a single signature. And as for initials, well, what's two letters? If Dennis Swift left any other writing, he'd be different. Some forgeries, you know, can't be proved."

"Anything in these two," Alby selected Wilcox's and Coe's, "to indicate one of them might have forged Dennis Swift's name to make it look as if Dinard had done it?"

"Nope. This one — Coggs' — he wrote with his right hand, but it has the look of left-hand writing."

"Coggs has a water-tight alibi for last night," Harrod contributed. "So we can leave him out."

"Well, then, all I've got to say is that Dinard probably's your man, though I'd hate to see him fry on this test alone. Funny thing, how often men use their own initials on their pseudonyms. D.S. and S.D. . . . Well, maybe."

"Go home and get some sleep, why don't you?" Alby suggested. "Everybody's covered and nobody's going to be arrested tonight."

Higgins hesitated. "It'd eat me up if anybody else made the collar in this case."
